DEATHS PROBED

Baby Only Survivor of Auto Tragedy in Which Three Die

Ashland, Ky., Sept. 24—A two-year-old orphaned in an automobile is in the city hospital here, Boyd County officials are seeking for the death of Jacob Price, and an infant, whose bodies found in Hoods Creek, near here. The automobile in which they had been riding, had plunged down a 50-foot embankment late Thursday or early Friday.

Tourists were attracted to the scene Friday afternoon by the cries of the only survivor of the tragedy. The child had crawled from the muddy bed of Hoods Creek, and was crying on the bank when found.

UNION COUNTY SHERIFF DIES AT CROSSING

Forrest S. Hager, 67, Killed When Erie Passenger Train Hits Auto

OCCURS NEAR RICHWOOD

Officer Engaged in Delivering Court Subpenas When Accident Takes Place

(Special to The Star)

Marysville, Sept. 24—Engaged in delivering court subpenas, Sheriff Forrest H. Hager, 67, of Union County, drove his car in the path of eastbound Erie passenger train No. 4 at Beaver Crossing, near Richwood, and was fatally injured. He died within a few minutes after trainmen reached his side.

There were no witnesses to the accident. It is believed that Sheriff Hager was unaware of the train's approach.

Trainmen brought the train to a stop and were the first to reach the sheriff's side. The body had been carried for a distance of 1,900 feet in the debris on the engine pilot. The Ford sedan Hager drove was demolished.

Sheriff Hager left his office here yesterday noon with a number of subpenas to be served in connection with the September term of common pleas court. Shortly before the fatal crash, he had eaten a meal in a Richwood restaurant and later visited for a few moments with his daughter, Mrs. James Handy, at her home in Richwood. He planned, it was said, to attend to additional official business before returning here.

Funeral Monday

Completion of funeral arrangements today were awaiting the arrival of the body here this afternoon. Services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Byhalia Friends' Church of which Sheriff Hager was a member. Burial will be made in Byhalia Cemetery.

Forrest S. Hager was born Feb. 25, 1860, in Union County where he had spent the greater part of his life, living in Washington Township, where for a number of years he engaged in farming. From 1900 until 1905, he served as a guard in the Columbus Workhouse. He married Claudia Stumates Feb. 22, 1881. Mrs. Hager died July 31, 1926.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. James Handy of Richwood and Mrs. F. H. Harger of Marysville and one son, H. B. Hager of West Mansfield. Another daughter died in Columbus in March, 1926. There have now been five deaths in the immediate family in the last 18 months. Surviving also are one sister and two brothers.

Sheriff Hager started on his first term in county office in January, 1925. He was re-elected sheriff last November. At the time of his death he was serving his second term.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge of Marysville.

LONG-DISTANCE AIR VOYAGES POSTPONED

Start of Elder, Grayson and Fonck Flights Delayed at Curtiss Field

Curtiss Field, N. Y., Sept. 24—Weather and other circumstances today caused further postponement of the three long-distance flights planned here.

Miss Ruth Elder's transatlantic plane, the "American Girl," was to be given a test flight today. Miss Elder was not at the field and was not expected to take part in the test flight.

Captain George Haldeman pilot of the "American Girl," said he was determined to make the flight to Paris despite efforts to dissuade him. He said he did not think Miss Elder and he would be able to get away Sunday, as weather reports were unfavorable.

Miss Frances Grayson, who plans to fly to London and Paris, and the hop-off of her Sikorsky amphibian plane was at least two weeks off. She said a number of tests would be necessary before the flight was made. Wilmer Stults is her pilot.

Capt. Rene Fonck, French ace, who plans a non-stop flight to San Francisco, was told his mechanics required more time to complete adjustments on his plane. He had hoped to hop off late this afternoon.

MAY BOND ALL DRY OFFICERS

Proposal Expected To Be Submitted at Next Session of Congress

Washington, Sept. 24—A proposal to bond all dry agents as a means of protecting the public and the government was under consideration today by the prohibition bureau.

The recent killing of a Maryland farmer by a dry agent, and the statement by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman that corruption is rampant in the service, have brought the question of more effective control over enforcement officials to a head.

Prohibition headquarters understood that legislation would be proposed at the next session of congress to put agents under penal bond of from $2,000 to $5,000, to guarantee faithful performance of their duties. Probably no objection to such a bill would be interposed.

New Orders Issued

In connection with the proposal it was stated that new orders have been issued that firearms must be used only in self-defense in enforcement operations.

Warnings have been issued to agents that they must observe every feature of the federal laws in making searches, seizures or investigations relating to violation of the Volstead act.

Agents who fail to meet these requirements will be dismissed from the service and will not have the backing of the federal government should they be arrested by state authorities, officials said.

JESSE A. WARRICK IS INJURED IN FALL

Contractor in Serious Condi- Despite Epidemic; Attend- Working Accident

Jesse A. Warrick, 56, of 213 Bentonpl, is in City hospital seriously injured as a result of a fall from a scaffold yesterday afternoon. He is suffering from a cut on the back of the head and contusion of the lower chest and upper abdomen.

Warrick, a contractor, was remodeling a building at 131 S. Main st. At the time of the accident he was working on a scaffold from which he stepped backward, falling about 10 feet to the pavement.

The injuries are considered serious on account of Warrick's age, according to the attending physician.

He was taken to the hospital in the Schaffner & Queen ambulance.

MAKE NEW RECORD IN PARACHUTE JUMP

Washington, Sept. 24—A new world record for multiple parachute jumping was established at Anacostia naval air field today when nine men leaped from a navy-Ford tri-motor transport plane in 18 seconds.

OHIO YOUTH, 19, DIES IN BATTLE WITH OFFICERS

Alleged Boy Bandit Gasps Name of "Mother" as He Falls

TRAPPED IN DWELLING

Shot by Officer After He Overpowers Man and Wife in Detroit Home

Detroit, Sept. 24—The thoughts of a 19-year-old boy, who had boasted, it is said, that he and two companions shot a policeman in Illinois, turned to his mother today as he fell dying from bullet wounds in his abdomen inflicted by police.

William G. Neely recognized Joe Subko, 19, of Akron, O., as the man who kidnaped him and robbed him Sept. 12. He appealed to Patrolman Percy Van Conant, 29.

In the gun duel that followed, Subko was struck in the head and the officer was shot in the abdomen.

Overpowers Couple

Subko fled, turned into an alley and entered the garage of Capt. John F. Denstaedt, a ferryboat captain. He then forced Denstaedt to enter his home, and herded the captain and his wife into the kitchen pantry.

Walter Denstaedt, the captain's son, arrived at his father's house shortly afterward, failed to get any response and called the police. Subko was still hiding in the pantry when Detective Albert Carter reached the scene.

Captain Denstaedt jerked a thumb to the bandit's hiding place and Carter sent a bullet crashing into Subko's abdomen. The youth fell forward, clutching at his stomach, shrieking, "Mother, oh, mother."

Sheriff Joseph Kinsey, Monroe County, will try to identify Subko as the "hitch-hike" bandit who shot him in the arm last week and escaped. Subko, police say, is known as Sopko and recently escaped from Lancaster reformatory in Ohio.

Neely told police Subko boarded his automobile, robbed him and made him drive around town for three hours.

UPPER SANDUSKY TO PLAY HARDING HERE

Opening Football Game Scheduled for 2:30 O'clock This Afternoon

Harding High School's football squad will have the first test of its strength this afternoon when Upper Sandusky comes here for the opening game of the season. After the final whistle blows this afternoon Coach Bohyer and followers of the Red and Black will have a fair idea of Harding's chances in the N. C. O. league this fall. Upper Sandusky is usually pretty good and this year the team is reported to be heavy.

The game will be played on a slightly remodelled field at the fairground. The local squad has had one practice session there and will be acquainted with the ground.

The chilly football weather which prevailed during the early part of the week broke this morning with a turn for the warmer. The sun's rays at noon indicated that moleskins will be slightly uncomfortable.

Since the game this afternoon has no bearing on the N. C. O. standing Coach Bohyer plans to use as many of his men as possible in order that they may get some actual experience. Francis Baron, former Marion man, will referee the game. Elmer Smith, local athlete and former college football player, is the head linesman. The umpire will come from Ohio Wesleyan.

AIR-LINE FAILS

Cleveland-Louisville Venture Abandoned As Unprofitable

Cleveland, Sept. 24—Admitting that the Cleveland-Louisville air-line, which included stops at Akron, Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati, had not proved profitable, John Paul Riddle, general manager of the company in charge, announced today that the line would be temporarily abandoned.

The planes used on the line are needed at this time for a new service between Chicago and Cincinnati, Riddle said. The Cleveland-Louisville line has been in operation for four months and has carried 109 passengers and 300 pounds of express, with only three forced landings during the whole time, according to Riddle. He declared that it would be reopened later.

N. Y. BANKER DIES

New York, Sept. 24—Edward T. Jeffery, director of the Equitable Trust Co., and of the Manhattan Railway Co., died here today. Jeffery was for many years president of the former Denver & Rio Grande railroad, and was a close associate of the late George Gould.

Here is Lieut. Otto Koennecke, German ace, bound for Alaska, Canada and the United States via the Orient. He is flying the plane Germania.

SENTENCED TO REFORMATORY

Simeon Ward and Hershel Shafer Given Indeterminate Terms at Mansfield

After entering pleas of guilty when arraigned before Judge George B. Scofield in common pleas court this morning, two of the prisoners indicted by the grand jury this week, were given indeterminate sentences to the Mansfield Reformatory.

Simeon Ward, arrested a few weeks ago on a charge of highway robbery, and Herschal Shafer, on a charge of larceny, were the prisoners sentenced this morning. They will be taken to Mansfield within the next few days.

According to the Ohio statute for highway robbery, Ward's sentence ranges from 10 to 20 years and he will serve that length of time unless the Mansfield reformatory parole board sees fit to release him before the sentence has expired. Shafer is subject to a sentence of from one to seven years.

Hearings Set

Pleading not guilty when arraigned this morning three men, also indicted by the grand jury, were set down for hearing early in October.

Roland Swearingen, indicted on a charge of assault and battery, will have a hearing Oct. 5. The case of Andrew Cranmer, indicted on a larceny charge, has been set for Oct. 6 and the hearing of Dan Bird, charged with shooting with intent to kill, will be held Oct. 7. Bird was released on bond of $1,000.

Owing to the fact that the defendant's attorney was not present at the arraignment this morning, the date for the hearing of A. W. Tibbals, was not set by Judge Scofield. Tibbals entered a plea of not guilty to two indictments of forgery.

The date for the hearing of Howard Stevens, indicted on a charge of embezzling at the January session of the grand jury, was withheld by the court this morning owing to the absence of the state's star witness in the case. Date for the hearing will be set down by Judge Scofield at a later date.

Ralph Henry, who was indicted by the grand jury for larceny, was not arraigned this morning.

SHOWERS FORECAST

Official Prediction Outlines Weather Prospects for Next Week

Washington, Sept. 24—Weather outlook for the period Sept. 26 to Oct. 1, inclusive.

Ohio Valley: Showers today and another period of showers after the middle of the week. Considerably cooler Monday and Monday night, and warmer about Wednesday.

Great Lakes Region: Periods of occasional precipitation, chiefly in first part of week; falling temperature by Monday and Tuesday to considerably below seasonal normal, followed by rising temperature and above normal in closing days of week.

CLEAR TITLE IS GIVEN TUNNEY BY COMMISSION

Illinois Boxing Authorities Refuse To Consider Protest

UNDISPUTED CHAMPION

Referee Followed Rules and Decision Will Stand, Chairman Announces

Chicago, Sept. 24—Gene Tunney will remain undisputed world's heavyweight boxing champion.

The Illinois boxing commission, John C. Righeimer, chairman, announced today, will not consider a protest of the decision of the Tunney-Dempsey bout here Thursday night.

"As far as the commission is concerned the protest of the decision filed by Leo P. Flynn, Dempsey's manager, will not be considered, as the bout was conducted in accordance with the rules and regulations of the commission. The decision as rendered by Referee Dave Barry will stand," Righeimer said.

No Reason for Change

"Instructions covering just such a situation as arose in the fight Thursday were given the referee and timekeepers and there is no reason the decision rendered should not stand," the commission chairman stated.

Dempsey and Tunney both refused to comment on the announcement of the commission chairman.

The champion, who lunched today with Mayor William Hale Thompson, said he "did not care to say anything."

Jack in Seclusion

Dempsey, after issuing a statement to the effect he had not decided on making a formal protest of the decision to the commission at this time, remained today in seclusion at a suburban hotel. He planned to leave Monday for New York, returning in a week or 10 days to his home in Los Angeles.

REV. FRANK H. WATKIN CALLED TO INDIANA

Accepts Pastorate of First Church of Nazarene at Hammond

The fifth local pastor to leave Marion within the last month and the eighth to leave within the last six months is Rev. Frank H. Watkin, pastor of the First Church of Nazarene, who today announced his acceptance of a call to the pastorate of the First Church of Nazarene in Hammond, Ind.

Rev. G. D. Waddle of Cambridge, Mass., will succeed Reverend Watkin in the local pulpit. He is expected to take charge here Sunday, Oct. 2.

Reverend Watkin will preach his farewell sermon at the church at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night and will leave the following Tuesday, accompanied by Mrs. Watkin and their son, Frank Jr., for Hammond to make their future home. Reverend Watkin has served as pastor of the Marion Church for three years and one month during which time he accepted 95 persons into the membership of the church. It was also during his term here that the church was remodeled.

Here Three Years

Reverend Watkin came here three years ago from Xenia to succeed Rev. H. G. Trumbauer, who had accepted a Los Angeles call. His new charge takes him into the northern Indiana district and to a much larger church. He received his call from Dr. R. T. Williams, general superintendent of the district, while Reverend Waddle was assigned the local pastorate by Rev. G. A. Gibson, district superintent of the Ohio district.

Other pastors leaving Marion within the month were Rev. C. L. Allen, an Evangelical now in Columbus, and three Methodist pastors, Rev. A. F. Uphoff, Dr. J. D. Darling and Rev. B. D. Powell. Two Presbyterian men, Rev. Raymond W. Smiley, Rev. Alfred W. Swan, and a Baptist pastor, Rev. A. G. Adriance, also recently left Marion for new charges.

THIRD AIR TRAGEDY

One Death in Latest of Series of Wrecks in Germany

Berlin, Sept. 24—Another air tragedy, the third to overtake German commercial aviation in as many days, today claimed the life of one person, a mechanician, while the pilot and two passengers escaped without injury.

This latest crash occurred between Stettin, in North Germany, on the Baltic coast, and Colmar. The propeller of the plane, the "D-888," shattered shortly after the plane took off from Stettin, compelling the pilot to make a forced landing on the beach. The jolting of the machine extinguished Mechanic Fiorler out of the cockpit and he was drowned.

MAN RUN DOWN BY AUTO DIES

Brother of Marion Woman Killed in Little Sandusky; Dayton Resident

Upper Sandusky, Sept. 24—Burt C Barrett, 58, Dayton was instantly killed when he stepped in the path of automobile on the Marion-Upper Sandusky pike last night. The accident occurred about 8 o'clock directly in front of the Barney Martin grocery at Little Sandusky.

Barrett, who had just alighted from a car started across the road evidently not seeing the approaching car, driven by Thomas Reber, this city. Reber attempted to swerve but could not avoid hitting the man. Barrett's face was smashed and he sustained fatal internal injuries. He was brought to this city immediately in the Bringman ambulance.

On Furlough

Barrett was on a 90 day furlough from the National Home for Disabled Soldiers at Dayton where he has lived for a number of years. According to his furlough card his destination was Berlin Center, O.

Relatives in this part of the state are a son, Ralph Barrett, Morral; two brothers, Clarence, Marion and Orry, of near Marion, and one sister, Mrs Ida Allein, Marion.

With Reber were his wife and mother, Mrs. Albert Reber, the three being bound for Marion when the accident occurred.

Believed Unavoidable

While still withholding his final decision pending further investigation of the case, Coroner L. W. Nau announced today that the accident which caused Barrett's death was probably unavoidable.

Barrett enlisted in the National Guard at the time of the World War and was wounded in action in France. He was a member of Bird-McGinnis Post, No. 162, American Legion, Marion.

At the time of the fatal accident he was on his way to the William Lamberson home near Little Sandusky. It has not been learned with whom he was riding just before being struck by the Reber car.

Barret was a native of the Morral and Little Sandusky communities and had spent the greater part of his life in that section. He married Addie Brewer in 1896, who is now a resident of Morral.

LEVINE ABANDONS PLANS FOR FLIGHT

Forced Down at Vienna, Gives Up Hope of Record Voyage This Year

Vienna, Sept. 24—Charles A. Levine, who has abandoned his attempt to break the world's endurance and distance airplane records, plans to leave here shortly for Venice, Italy, it is a spectator at the Schwechat was observed today.

The flight to Venice, according to Levine's plans, will be made in the transatlantic monoplane "Miss Columbia," in which he and his pilot, Walter B. Hinchliffe, were forced down yesterday afternoon after having flown from an attempted record flight to Konigsberg, Berlin.

Levine announced that after that he had given up hope of making the long distance flight this year.

HEAD OF LOCAL CONCERN DIES IN AUTO CRASH

Phil S. Dreher, 44, Columbus, Killed Near Radnor After Visiting Branch Here

FATHER OF MARION MAN

President of Dreher-Conklin Supply Co. Victim; Two Companions Escape

Phil S. Dreher, 44, president of the Dreher-Conklin Supply Co., Columbus, and father of Harry J. Dreher, 111 Superior st, manager of the local branch of the company, located on N. Main st, is dead at his home in Columbus today as the result of his turning over in a ditch near Radnor yesterday.

Dreher, who was returning to Columbus after a business trip in this city, was almost instantly killed. The Columbus man is said to have lost control of the car when it struck a curve.

The car turned over in the ditch and pinned Dreher beneath. His two companions, George Lupfer, 24, and Robert G. Allen, 25, both of Columbus, were also injured. Allen is today suffering from two compound fractures of the left arm and Lupfer, sustained several minor injuries.

Death Almost Instant

Dreher died a few minutes after farmers and motorists had lifted the car from his body. He was pronounced dead by Dr. Finefrock of Prospect before the M. H. Gunder Co. ambulance arrived at the scene.

The body was brought back to Marion to the Gunder Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. The body was removed to Columbus today.

Besides his son Harry, of this city, Dreher is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Dreher; another son, Floyd, Columbus; two daughters, Deloris Dreher and Mrs. Harriet Behnis, and his father, John G. Dreher, Columbus.

GUARD INSPECTED BY 10TH INFANTRY HEAD

Col. William H. Waldron, Ft. Thomas, Ky., Commends Harding Tomb Unit

Lieut. Walter Lee Sherfey, commander, and members of the Tenth U. S. Infantry Guard Detachment stationed in Marion as an honorary military guard at the tomb of President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding, were commended for the excellent appearance of the unit by Col. William H. Waldron, commanding officer of the Tenth U. S. Infantry, Ft. Thomas, Ky., following an inspection yesterday afternoon.

Colonel Waldron is one of the most distinguished as well as one of the youngest colonels in the regular army. He is a graduate of the Army War College, the Army Staff College and a distinguished graduate of the infantry and cavalry schools.

During the war Colonel Waldron was awarded the distinguished service cross and the distinguished service medal. For a number of years Colonel Waldron was editor of the Infantry Journal, an army periodical published in Washington. He is credited with making this publication one of the most important in the United States Army.

Colonel Waldron also is the author of several military books. Prior to assuming command of the Tenth U. S. Infantry, he was chief of staff of the 100th Division, Organized Reserves.

Classifying of Infantile Paralysis Germ is Valuable Aid to Science in War on Disease, Research Head States

BOSTON, Sept. 24—The germ of infantile paralysis has been definitely classified, thereby simplifying the task of science in its attempts to overcome the dread disease, Dr. W. L. Aycock, head of the Harvard infantile paralysis commission, said today.

Dr. Aycock, one of the leaders in infantile paralysis research work, said that the main problem in combatting the disease was to find a suitable animal in connection with the manufacture of an anti-toxin.

"We can not find a suitable animal from whose blood we may make serum to fight infantile paralysis," said Dr. Aycock. "The only animal which takes the disease appears to be the monkey and the latter's mortality is so high that it is an unsatisfactory subject. COMB CITY IN HUNT FOR STOLEN JEWELS

N. Y. Officials Seek $100,000 in Gems Lost by Banker's Wife

New York, Sept. 24—Secrecy which surrounded the six-day search for $100,000 in gems stolen from Mrs. Frank G. Allen, wife of a western millionaire banker, was dropped today as scores of police and private detectives toured the pawnshops and known "fences" of the metropolitan area.

Mrs. Allen mussed her jewels after a taxicab ride with her husband and their 12-year-old granddaughter from a Cunard-line pier to a local hotel. The Allens had just returned from abroad.

The gems were carried in a leather case, the police learned, which Allen gave to the driver with an admonition to "keep an eye on it." A servant followed in another car with luggage.

The Allens identified the picture of a taxicab driver at police headquarters as the man they think drove them to the hotel. The driver has not been arrested, but it was learned that the police have him under surveillance.

Before leaving New York, it is understood, Allen offered a substantial reward for recovery of the gems, and "no questions asked." The Allens live in Moline, Ill., and Pasadena, Cal.

FIVE NEW HITS ON BROADWAY

Producers Begin to Toss Successes at Hungry Playgoers

By BUSHNELL DIMOND
(Special to The Star)

New York, Sept. 24—After weeks of dull try-outs and openings that should never have opened, a veritable freshet of Broadway hits has quickened the parched playgoer. Out of the nine productions recently offered five are already established successes. The dramatic reporters, the box offices and the agencies attest this and several of the other four stand a change of edging up with the leaders.

"The Trial of Mary Dugan," at the National, is Bayard Veiller's reply to the theory that melodramatists can't come back. This is, indeed, a brisker story than "Within the Law," and even shades "The Thirteenth Chair" for pure thrill, suspense and humor.

He Comes Back

According to the moment's whim, Mr. Veiller has drafted his audience as jury and turned his theater into a court room, with cops in the lobby and the curtain up all evening. Wildly, but warily, unmindful of real legal procedure, the piece is a smashingly entertaining thing.. turned into a real beauty, pathos and passion by Anne Harding and Rex Cherryman, as the accused chorus girl and her lawyer brother. You need not be ashamed if you find yourself upset and a little lachrymal during the scene where he cross examines her and strips the sheath from her respectability. The play may be hokum, but it is hokum of deep roots and tremulous tendrils and the young people play it with that richness of sense and rhythm of expression that make fine histrionic art.

Daniel Rubin, the author of that profoundly sad and cruel play, "The Evil", is responsible for "Women Go On Forever!" at the Forrest. It is selling out "because it's dirty," the greatest theatrical editor in the city tells me. The alleged dirt is incidental, not especially juicy, and flavors the play neither one way nor the other. Set in a sordid boarding house, of which Mary Boland is the harassed proprietress, "Women Go On Forever" recites an Odyssey of theft, murder, attempted seduction, birth, death, drunkenness, and marriage.

Plottiest of Season

It is the plottiest of the autumn's productions, and to me, remarkably skilful in its writing. Mr. Rubin has devised a brutal and tingling melodrama, set in a pitch of raucous farce. he combined styles come off with startling effect, like a bucket of water in the face of an hysteric, and the transient and acid ironies with which the the dialogue is seared have the bite of disillusionment, disgust and gutter mirth.

Two extraordinary moving and artful characterizations are those of Elizabeth Taylor as a hungry spinster whose chief diversion is turning on the radio for her poll parrot's pleasure, and of Douglass Montgomery as her blind, 19-year-old lover, who goes to his nuptial night without clerical blessing, and with the blood of his mother's "man" on his hands.

And Then Burlesque

Arthur Hopkins offers "Burlesque", written by George Manker Watters and himself, at his own Plymouth. This episodic and sometimes disjointed play recites the rise and fall and possible temporary redemption of a heeler, unintelligent, but hugely likeable, vain, flirtatius and fond of the bottle. What it would be like in hands other than those of Hal Skelly I cannot imagine. His portrait of the man is complete, utterly genuine, with a sort of garbagey graciousness that cannot be put down in print. Barbara Stanwyck as his one-man wife is exquisitely tough, captivating and competent. Two really superb pieces of acting, these.

If Philip Barry had written "The Wild Man of Borneo," it would have been something notable. Marc Connelly merely turns the tale of the inflated tank town actor into a calico farce of screaming colors, dotted with a dimity sentimentality that denies the other emotion. The atmosphere of the Union Square boarding house for actors in the '90's is very good, and the types are amusing, but vigor of grasp and delicacy of imagination are absent. Neither is there supple or self-reliant direction. The genesis of the play is a one act sketch done at an all-star benefit years ago by W. S. Fields, Beatrice Lillie and Jeanne Eagles. George Hassell now plays the "ham" with an unction that overflows its own bowl. Josephine Hull as the impressionable boarding house keeper; Marguerite Churchill as the actor's daughter, and Spencer Charters as The Great Birdo are interesting, touching and funny.

New Switch Engines

While the new freight locomotives are being broken in and placed in service the Baldwin Locomotive Works will begin delivering 30 new heavy switch engines to the Erie. Delivery of all the new motive power will mark the passing of some 400 locomotives of older and less efficient types which have been consigned to the scrap heap, as part of President Bernet's improvement program, and will return to the road over $1,000,000 in junk value.

At the same time, other locomotives of the Mikado and Santa Fe type which the Erie has retained in service have been equipped with latest efficiency devices and when all the new motive power is in service, which will be within the next month, Erie fast freight trains will be handled between New York and Chicago with only four changes instead of eight. Erie passenger trains between the two cities are now being handled with only one change.

This thorough rehabilitation of the Erie's motive power is expected to show large results in the railroad's earnings.

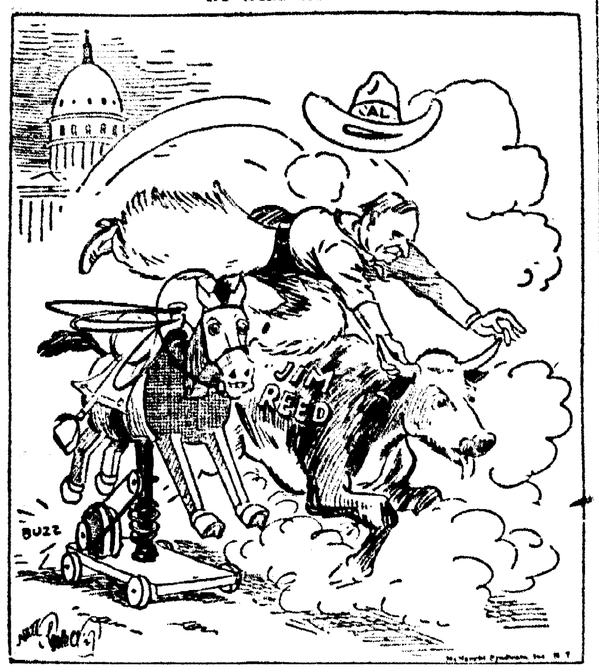
Yoo-Hoo, Rebecca-a

What's Become of Mrs. Coolidge's 'Coon Is What Will Wants to Know; Now's Time to Make Your Son Learn to Box

BY WILL ROGERS



Wait till he starts trying to bulldog Jim Reed.

WELL all I know is just what I read in the papers. We are going to be awful short of news, especially of pictures of our President attending the Rodeo's and Wild West shows. I think we will have to have a little show go to Washington and put on a few bronk riding and Bull dogging stunts to make him feel like old times. Course a little later on he will have about all the Bronk riding himself that he can do. The minute that Congress comes, when he starts breaking them in again after a long summers lay off he will be pretty busy.

Wait till he starts train to bulldog Jim Reed, when Jim comes in with all this election evidence to try and show that the Republicans are paying admission, when the show was supposed to be free. Wait till farm relief bills start coming in and Cal will have to get those sours out (that he had so much trouble walking in) and he will need 'em to stay on top when the vetoing starts.

Where, Oh Where?

You know one thing I missed when they come back to the White House and that was news of Rebecca, The Coon. Rebecca left Washington with more billing and advertising than any raccoon that ever left them parts, she let the Black Hills and was the headliner in all the news dispatches, and now they come back and I have looked through all the baggage and I cant find hide nor hair of that Raccoon. Now what I want to know is what become of her? I am just afraid of two things. One is she might have contracted a morganitic alliance with some political male member of her fraternity and decided to remain in the Black Hills. She had seen the political side of Washington and decided that it was very much to the Apple Sauce. Or the main thing I fear and the reason you never read about Rebecca again is that she might have possibly turned Democrat. In that case of course she would have been banished without trial. But anyhow we have lost somewhere one of the most colorful members of the Presidential party. My lord you dont read any more about her now, than if she was one of the Secretaries, or detectives. Course by the time this reaches you the Big prize fight will be over. It will be the most money that these two have ever fought for up to now.

Grooming His Son

I tell you those big purses sure make a man think. I certainly kick myself. I didnt learn to box. I was going to learn but we used to hear so many terrible things about John L. Sullivan and how rough it was. But I certainly am making up for it, for my oldest Boy that is in Culver Military Academy, I am having him drop all his studies and just specialize on boxing. If course I want him to have Golf so that he will be able to train for his fights. Then I also am having him take writing too so that he will be equipped in case he does ever make the prize ring. For I can think of no worse catastrophe than to become Champion in any line of athletic endeavour and then couldnt be able to write about it for the papers.

I hope when my boy becomes champion he can find some good partner to fight with every year or so, so he wont have to go out and meet a lot of outsiders. Its so much easier after you get used to fighting with the same fellow. You take some stranger and you never know what they are going to do. But you take two fellows that know how each other fight and the hardest part then is to carry the money away. And to think that crazy kid of mine wanted to be a lawyer!

Hoover Not Forgetting

Well what else do we see in the papers nowadays? The League of Nations are meeting and Germany was rude enought to suggest Disarming. They said it was in the League's business and they wanted to see about it. Well Lord, Mr Coolidge's little three horse conference had already crabbed that, so the disarming is out now until we get enough ships afloat to start sinking again. Mr Hoover has just returned again from the South. He is about the only one that seems to still remember that they had a flood. The others thought the moment the water had gone why everything was allright. He certainly is trying to do something for a people that he knows need it worse than anybody in the world. Nobody dont know now what is going to keep the waters from breaking over next spring if they get high enough. The only thing they will have is just Congress in session. That's all we got to hold em back.

Its been a kinder slow time for our Marines lately. We havent had 'em shooting at anybody anywhere now in several weeks. I never know of a time when we had fewer wars on our hands. The Mexican election I guess will be about the next one for them.

Loew, a Good Friend

There has been a great fellow died since I wrote you all last week. That's this fellow Marcus Loew. The owner of all the big Movie Houses. I had the good fortune to have known him since his early start in the show business, and I always considered him one of my best friends. He was the most modest rich man you ever saw. He had a great sense of humor, more than any one I know of in the Movie business and that's saying a lot.

Dr. Giannini one of the owners and founders of the great Bank of Italy told me just today out at the Studio where I am working, that he thought Marcus Loew was the squarest man he believed he ever dealt with. That he was more than honest. He was a great credit to his race. You would have loved him, everybody that ever knew him did. I remember last summer when I was on the boat going to Europe he and Lee Shubert the big Theatrical Producer were on the boat. The big General strike was declared in England just ... night or so before we were to land, and most everyone that was originally going to go to London switched and got off at Shearburg to go to Paris. I told him I was going right on to London. I had my family with me, and do you know that man talked to me till about two o'clock in the morning when we were going to land at Shearburg about eight. He was afraid that during the strike there would be riots and bloodshed, and that I or my folks might get hurt. I felt there was no danger. But he certainly was thinking of our welfare. He gave lots of people amusement at a very low price. He was a real square fellow. I was with him when he died. I was in Monte Carlo and he was dying in Paris. I was on the phone to his son Arthur in New York. I was the last person he talked to. He was a great man. I was with him when he died

Capital Torn By Arguments Over Curb on Ocean Flying

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Star Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—It's lucky [illegible] was no authorizing regulation [illegible] Columbus' day or we might [illegible] discovered.

[illegible] the burden of the aviation [illegible] song just now.

There's talk of a curb on President Coolidge to put a crimp into reckless [illegible] flying.

It simply serious fun-makers—not necessarily all actual foreigners, but [illegible] numerous lately, who admit they're not in the habit of soaring aloft themselves but nevertheless want to see the air cleared.

Many people compare the skies to the side of the inclination unless he takes some chances and makes a good many airplane on the shores of the gods of [illegible] by the way, who is the god of aviation?

That's the orthodox argument.

• • •

COLUMBUS? Yes and Magellan and Vasco de Gama! A few things it would have been for the progress of the human race in the 15th century if all those boys had been kept at home because Ferdinand and Isabella, Henry the Navigator and others hadn't financed in starting?

Wouldn't it?—demand the aviation enthusiasts.

Ah, but it appears according to more conservative folks who have discussed the subject with him, President Coolidge doesn't consider that that gang consisted of silent fools.

He does not think Lindy was one. He considers Lindy a worthwhile Lone Eagle, but Columbus and Magellan et al, in their generation.

There's a difference between legitimate, if hazardous, pioneering, and fear, if not quite suicidal stunting, as the president quoted as expressing it.

• • •

AW, heck! rejoin the enthusiasts. Columbus and Magellan and Henry Hudson and the Cabots weren't just as much stunt heads as the most reckless of present day aviators—the enthusiasts would like to know who wasn't among those early seafaring men.

Well, the president quoted as opining, held, in the Flying Dutchman case.

Yes, the president's reported to believe that it would have been an evil thing for all concerned if Columbus had been enabled to persist in sailing in the face of fear for him, because for his own safety for his owners and much better for all the shipowners who, if they anything to the normal risk, had financed expedition here and there, as a result of sighting land looking head winds off the Cape of Good Hope, after two or three expensive cruises to make good on their ships and [illegible].

• • •

WHAT President Coolidge is urged to do is to put it up to F. Trubee Davison, Edward P. Warner and W. Irving Glover, assistant secretaries respectively of the war, navy and commerce departments, respectively in charge of aviation, to devise [illegible] to be done about transoceanic flying.

"The administration doesn't want to be discouraged, and that's one reason it [illegible] to favor a certain [illegible] of regulation. If it gets [illegible] fixed as almost sure death [illegible] over a body of water in an aeroplane, [illegible] are afraid the effect will be to [illegible] the encouraging—not [illegible] flights of fancy, but to the [illegible] development of inter-continental [illegible] flights.

It is evident that there [illegible] considerable opposition to any [illegible] which would [illegible] surface ships [illegible] to comply with reasonable [illegible] requirements before leaving [illegible] port, and government authorities don't see why they can't be required to do so, too, [illegible] transoceanic planes, anyway.

High-Compression POWER in all models

THE high-compression engine principle may be new to some cars now making a feature of it, but to Chandler it's as old as balloon tires or 4-wheel brakes!

The New Magnificent Special Six Sedan $995 All prices f. o. b. factory

Chandler's Pikes Peak Motor needs no special cylinder head—it is a real high-compression motor in itself—a complete high-compression unit—and it holds many national performance records.

And if you want to feel how high-compression power really feels, get inside the new Special Six Sedan at $995—or the new Metropolitan Big Six Sedan at $1495—or the new Royal Eight Sedan at $1995—or any one of Chandler's two dozen magnificent new models and just step on the gas!

Another thing: Chandler is the one and only car in its price class with a chassis that lubricates itself the moment you press a plunger.

Is it any wonder that Chandler is making whirlwind gains in sales?

THE EXCLUSIVE TRIANGLE INSURED TIRE DEALER

Protection to the Tire User

WE HAVE SECURED THE EXCLUSIVE DISTRIBUTION OF TRIANGLE INSURED TIRES AND INVITE YOU TO VISIT OUR STORE AND BECOME ACQUAINTED WITH THIS WONDERFUL PROPOSITION OF INSURED TIRE MILEAGE. THE TRIANGLE TIRE AND RUBBER CO. HAS AUTHORIZED US TO ISSUE WITH EACH TIRE SOLD A CERTIFICATE OF INSURANCE GUARANTEEING EACH TIRE FOR A PERIOD OF ONE YEAR AGAINST ANY ACCIDENTS OR DEFECTS THAT MIGHT PUT THE TIRE OUT OF SERVICE.

We have positively eliminated all elements of risk from tire costs.

COME IN

Five Reasons For Buying Triangle Insured Tires

First — They are positively insured in writing for one year, against stone bruises, rim cuts, blow-outs, tread separation, or any other defects or ACCIDENTS that would put the tire out of use.

Second — Such a guarantee is possible, because Triangle Insured Tires are built above the standard in quality and strength and are super oversize.

Third — They do not cause the trouble and roadside delays ordinary tires give.

Put an insured Triangle alongside any other tire made. We will INSURE IT A YEAR. You cannot lose. And you will realize for yourself how much better and longer they will run.

Fourth — The EXTRA service they give, because of their super quality, makes them the lowest price per mile tire you can buy.

Fifth — This is a direct factory proposition and consequently we are able to sell these tires at prices no higher than you would pay for ordinary tires.

Seeks Divorce

Augusta M. Burris filed suit for divorce in common pleas court this morning from John W. Burris, charging gross neglect and extreme cruelty.

The plaintiff avers that the defendant has not provided for her for the last three years. She claims that they were married in Columbus, March 20, 1920.

She asks for divorce and alimony.

In another petition filed at the same time, the plaintiff asks for the partition of real estate, naming John Burris, W. T. Jones and the Peoples Building & Loan Co., as party defendants.

50 MARION FARMERS AT BORER MEETING

Attend Consultation Session at Port Clinton; Three Counties Represented

Approximately 50 Marion County farmers as well as about 100 from Crawford and Seneca Counties were in attendance at a corn borer consultation yesterday at Port Clinton.

M. P. Jones, extension entomologist at Ohio State University, Columbus, the speaker for the day, discussed the seriousness of the situation and gave life history and an account of the habits of the dreaded worm.

"The measures of control of this insect in effect today will not completely destroy the borer," Mr. Jones said, "but will expose it and other like insects which may be its living, thus holding it in check until further control measures are worked out."

An inspection of the infested fields followed, Mr. Jones accompanying the expedition and answering questions regarding the borer. A low cutting corn binder in operation was also exhibited, a number of such demonstrations to be held in the vicinity of Marion next week.

The meeting was planned by the instructors of the vocational agriculture departments at the Prospect, Pleasant, LaRue, Martel, Waldo and Green Camp Schools.

CONSIDER ARREST OF COUPLE IMPORTANT

Raymond Salisbury and Wife, Colored, Turned Over to Springfield Police

What police regard as one of the most important captures of the past several months took place on Hocking-st early last night when Raymond Salisbury and his wife, Elizabeth S. Isbury, both colored, were arrested on affidavits out of the municipal court at Springfield.

Salisbury, who is 29 years of age, is wanted by the Springfield police on charges of bootlegging and of jumping bail while his wife is wanted on a charge of shooting with intent to kill. She is said to have made an unsuccessful attempt to kill another colored woman in Springfield several weeks ago.

The police say Salisbury who went by the name of Brown here, was one of three colored men who robbed William Nixon, a local printer, in a west side pool room several weeks ago. Salisbury, the police say, left the city at that time. A watch has been kept for his return and when last night he, with his wife appeared in their old haunts, they were both placed under arrest. They were taken back to Springfield by police from that city this afternoon.

Daily Proverb—"Knowledge is silver among the poor, gold among the nobles, and a jewel among princes."

Mostly a State of Mind.

The funny little bearded hairpieces on the Rue de la Paix are apprehensive. The statuesque mannequins who sweep across the dais in their ateliers and salons are more pale than ever beneath their cosmetics.

The unfeeling men who run the American department of state are threatening to put up the tariff bars that would practically cut off Fifth avenue, Michigan boulevard, and Flagler street from the sartorial confections from the Rue de la Paix.

France has been tightening up the tariff screws on the American-made goods it has been importing while it has placed no such restrictions on the articles that Germany sends to her. American tariffs, on the other hand, while they may be regarded as high by some foreign exporters, treat foreign nations alike.

If France intends to discriminate against America, it can have all the tariff warfare it wants, the American department of state has just informed the French government.

Some women might raise their hands in horror and even shed a few bucketfuls of tears but the state department has strongly intimated that if the French carry their proposed discriminatory policy into effect, while the United States would dislike to do so, it might prove desirable to raise the embargo against luxuries which the French send here and which constitute the bulk of their exports to this country.

What would America do without the frilly things from Lucile and Jenny and Louise and Mme. Tout le Monde? What would it do without the unusual chapeaux that Erte concocts or the gowns that Poiret drapes in such an intriguing manner? What would it do without the exotic scents of Pinaud, Houbigant and Dper-Kiss?

It might do very nicely, thank you. Although these things constitute about one-tenth of the French exports to the United States, America could concoct its own frilly things and evolve its own styles, independent of the dictatorship of the Rue de la Paix, if it had to. Even Paris some day may be toppled from its position on the pinnacle of the world of fashion.

Lord help the poor reader who didn't care for fight news yesterday.

Stretching His Muscles.

The yellow giant that is cramped up in the little islands in the Pacific is beginning to stretch himself again and to strain against the territorial bonds that restrain him within the confines of the empire of Japan.

Year by year, he has been growing stronger and larger until the cherry-blossom land that once seemed so commodious a home no longer is able to accommodate him comfortably.

When the yellow giant stirs, his neighbors grow anxious. Unless he spreads out on their domain, there is no place for him to go and they know that he is strong enough to go almost where he will in the Orient, unless Europe restrains him.

When the Japanese giant stretches out his arms, his hands are filled with guns and with sturdy little yellow men, in very business-like military uniforms. Into Manchuria and China, he is now stretching to the westward, through the Suez canal have been steaming ships bearing machine guns, gas, and all modern implements of warfare—all of them Japanese ships, bearing munitions flags which give them the right of way through the canal.

People who may have thought these munitions were for the conflicting Chinese armies find that they were mistaken, for the Chinese have little left except the will to fight, and can't pay for expensive man-killing devices.

Japan protests that it wants peace with all the world but it joined England in refusing to grant America's demand for the limitation of cruisers and immediately afterward asked British banks for a new loan of $80,000,000 to extend the South Manchurian railway, over which it at once started shipping heavy exports of arms and munitions to Japanese strongholds on the mainland of Asia.

The yellow giant is cramped and he is stretching and his claws are sharp with death-dealing missiles. It is not impossible that he may alter the map of the Orient in the next few years.

The Biblical story of Eve has been rewritten as poetry at Chicago. But the killing of Abel by Cain in that Windy City version will be a corking tabloid tale.

The two Helens, Wills and Jacobs, both internationally famous tennis stars, have undergone appendicitis operations. The net game will soon have to put out some bowling propaganda.

The folk who used to puff up and tell how their ancestors came over on the Mayflower now have children who pride themselves on attending the president's church. And, so many suddenly got religion that it was necessary to remodel the edifice to make it safe for the crowds.

Noblesse Oblige.

When General Pershing, standing at the tomb of Lafayette, saluted the shade of the great French marquis and said, "Lafayette, we are here!" he exemplified the spirit of service and cooperation that guided the leader of the American Expeditionary Forces throughout the war.

Marshal Foch, extending the hospitality of the French people to the American veterans in Paris, for the American legion convention this week, has paid a warm tribute to this quality of mind and heart that characterized the American civilian in his contact with the other allied leaders.

"It must be remembered," Marshal Foch said, "that General Pershing, without insisting on his prerogatives of rank, showed always in our work entire abnegation, most complete devotion to the common cause of absolute righteousness as also the greatest energy to insure the triumph of this cause."

The understanding that existed between the leaders of the forces that fought shoulder to shoulder is called by Marshal Foch one of the greatest factors in the ultimate winning of the war.

Americans are proud that their military leader was recognized abroad as possessing one of the greatest qualities of leadership, the capacity to subordinate personal and individual desires and aims in order that the greatest good might be secured in a common cause.

Gene Tunney, to say nothing former Governor Cox, wants to devote his entire time to lecturing before boys and young men on how to live. We don't suppose Gene will be opposed to doing some of this lecturing in vaudeville houses at fifty cents per.

Looking Up for Wisdom.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene evidently believes that, although one may have his head among the stars and look about in the constellations for political guidance, it is well to keep one's feet firmly planted on terra firma.

Senator Pomerene has been at sea for a number of days. Literally, that is, not figuratively. The affable Canton lawyer is not accustomed to being at sea in the figurative sense.

He has been out on the bosom of the ocean, under the stars, night after night. On his recent return voyage from Europe he must have sat on deck, for many star-lit hours, studying as did Pythagoras and the astrologers and astronomers of old, what meaning the constellations held in the determination of human destiny.

Perhaps, on those nights at sea, he may have been able to learn from the stars where his own future good lay. At any rate, when he landed on shore and was immediately asked about his availability as the candidate of his party for president next year, the genial Ohio statesman smiled and said:

"It is not so written in the stars."

He told his questioners that he was happy in the practice of the law and that his duty, as he saw it, lay in continuing to act as chief prosecutor in the oil scandal trials.

Too few men are willing or able to analyze themselves, their circumstances and their environment accurately and to abide by their honest opinions of the result of such analyses. Which, by the way, is the cause of much human unhappiness.

One will recall the young misfit in the ministry who told his presiding elder that he had seen the letters "P. C." written in the heavens and took that as a divine message that he should preach Christ, but was told that it probably meant "Plow corn."

It will be interesting to see during the next twelve-month whether former Senator Pomerene has read the stars aright.

Could the Rev. Willis T. Jordon, of Columbus, Georgia, be lightly referred to as a "marryin' parson?"

We hope the spirits of the good ladies of 1827 won't feel too bad because the writer of the fashion series has referred to their era as that of the "leg-o'-mutton."

Now isn't that a fine example for the busiest street in the nation's biggest town! New York is demanding a jay walking law for Broadway! Well, it's often been said that all the wide-open-eyed boys are not residents of the wheat and corn country.

"Ruth Granted License," reads headline. That's her third. Two marriage and one flying. Determined for a non-stop flight.

Well, no one can prevent us hopeful scribes from dreaming of the day when a Colonel Ralph Isham will carry our poorly fashioned writings somewhere accompanied by a $570,000 insurance policy.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK!

Digging Grave with Teeth.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In a recent number of "London Life" were some pertinent comments on death certificates. The writer says they don't record the truth. When they do some of them will read like this:

"Died after thirty years of overeating."

"Killed by high living."

"Smothered to death, worked and slept in unventilated rooms."

I agree with "Life." A large percentage of death certificates dodge the truth. The family would never call the doctor again if he bluntly stated the fact.

"Speak well of the dead," is an old maxim. It should be followed, of course, but there need not prevent us from philosophizing on some of the all too common mistakes of mankind.

Many times I'm sorry I am a doctor. It is hard to keep from volunteering a lot of unwelcome advice to my friends. I see them overeating, "living high" in every sense, and violating all the rules of personal hygiene. It makes me feel like shouting at them in disapproval.

In similar spirit, I assume, they look at me and hesitate to condemn my shortcomings. It is a strange world, isn't it?

But who can deny that many men and many women, too, are cut off in their prime by high living? Overeating is the most prevalent of physical evils. Lack of fresh air during some period of the day, is the almost constant experience of the majority of the human family.

The average person is an optimist. He may do a lot of growling, but in his heart of hearts he expects to "get away" with everything he undertakes.

If he became really convinced that the daily practice of heavy eating is going to shorten his life materially, he would modify his habits. But he really expects, somehow or other, to escape the usual penalty.

What silly asses we are! Isn't it a fact?

Why in the name of common sense do we act this way. Why do you expect your heart and kidneys and liver will submit to treatment which killed your father, your grandfather, some other members of your family, or perhaps all of them?

Why do you think you have a ticket of immunity? It is absurd!

And yet that is what you really believe. In some mysterious manner you are to step past the Death Angel and dodge him for a score of years.

Let me whisper in your ear: He has his eye on you right now!

Wipe the smile off the face of expectant Death by practising temperance in your manner of living. You can add years to your expectancy when you are ready to sacrifice appetite.

Vagrant Verse.

THE SECRET OF THE FLOWERS.

Sweet letters of an angel tongue,
I've loved ye long and well,
And never have failed in your fragrance sweet
To find some secret spell—
A charm that has bound me with witching power
For mine is an old belief,
That midst your sweets and midst your blooms
There's a soul in every leaf!

—M. M. Ballou.

Suspense Is Terrible.

Umbrellas are to be short and stubby, according to fashion reports. We breathlessly await the latest fall announcements concerning toothpicks and latch keys.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; Who healeth all thy diseases; Who redeemeth thy life from destruction; Who crowneth thee with lovingkindness and tender mercies; Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things; so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's.—Psalm 103:2-5.

Prayer—O satisfy us, Lord, early with Thy mercy, that we may rejoice and be glad all our days.

Editorial Comment.

THE LONESOMEST MAN.

Benito Mussolini has given out what is perhaps the most remarkable interview ever printed. The entire world that is willing to acknowledge his superior intelligence will smile at the Italian dictator's assertion. He admits his greatness. So much for his ego. His heart, which he has revealed without reservation, is far more interesting. The heart of the man cries out to the world not to misjudge the soul.

Accepting the interview as a true revelation, Mussolini is the lonesomest man in the world. He confesses to a fanatical love for his Italy. "In the wholesome worship of that love," he says, "I am liable to make mistakes, but for the mistakes I will ask atonement from nobody, not even from Italy. I will only say I started on the road to be a great poor man, and I will swear today I am not only still a poor man, but a lonely being also, seeking for peace for myself, and greatness in peace for my Italy."

There is in this man, who has astonished the world with his audacious strength, that which comes into the souls of most men, great or small, a yearning to get back with the comrades of other days, where there is unrestrained good fellowship, where all hearts meet on a common level, and there is understanding among them, and mutual appreciation. This worldliness is the soul's most beautiful possession.

Mussolini acknowledges his longing to get away from the prison to which he has condemned himself. The so-called "tyrant" is a human being deserving of sympathy.—Toledo Blade.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT.

The scene of this story is laid in India. About sixty years ago a party of Koles went hunting in a dense jungle. There they came upon a tigress with two cubs and what appeared to be a human baby. Closer inspection showed that it was a boy about six years old. With some difficulty the natives rescued the child and brought it back to their village. That night and the next and the next the tigress prowled around the village and howled near the house where the child was confined. Finally, one night, the villagers managed to kill the beast. Meanwhile the child was being fed with raw meat and roots.

Though at first the child refused to wear anything whatever it finally consented to use the loin cloth, the usual clothing of a Kole. Ferocious at first, necessitating restraint with ropes, in time the wild child became almost a normal Kole and he married and had two children. The ferocious nature of the man never disappeared altogether, however, and he had even reached the age of forty when it was necessary to put him in chains to prevent his doing possible harm. It is said that the man had no fear whatever of tigers and that now here comes the part that needs to be taken with more salt than the meat—in spite of his being a normal human being in appearance the tigers would never attack him.—The Pathfinder.

CALIFORNIA TO THE WORLD'S RESCUE.

After designating a Messiah who seems to balk rather modestly at the assignment, Mrs. Annie Besant has now charged the natives of California with the duty of "determining the world's future." A new race, Mrs. Besant tells the world through a theosophical assembly at Berlin, is forming in California which is "entirely different in anthropological marks" from the rest of mankind, and this new race will have the function of "ending the domination of egoism and realizing the idea of common property."

This must be a long look ahead, for the living Californians have developed no particular tendency toward communism, and indeed they seem, even upon the most careful inspection, to be quite as egoistic as other human beings; perhaps a little more so. Their unbroken life out of doors, from January to January, makes them noticeably boisterous, and the chance to live that way renders them inordinately proud of their beautiful state. They are inclined to be emotional and external, but the inhabitant of no other state or nation can surpass them as joyous individualists.

If they are indeed to undertake the determination of the world's future, we are sure they will not balk at it. It may be suggested that they will do well to begin by working with perfect unanimity to boost one of their own citizens, a man by the name of Hoover, into the presidency of the United States.—Boston Transcript.

HOME OWNERSHIP.

The best obtainable estimates on home ownership in the United States indicate that between forty-five and fifty per cent. of the families living in one family houses own their homes. In some European countries, it is said, about eighty per cent. of the householders own their homes.

It is also known that the small home in Europe is not so generally or probably never so heavily mortgaged as in the United States. This is explained by the fact that in America the home owner, as a rule, believes that if his house will carry a large mortgage it is more salable and for the most part the home owners in this country are ever willing to sell out at a profit and look for another home.

We have not settled down to what might be termed "permanent" home ownership. And it is doubtful if we ever do, at least to the same extent as do the people of the older and slower moving countries.—Thrift Magazine.

The Way of the World.

Timidity developed in childhood and never overcome with age, has blocked the path of success for a multitude. Realize that nothing can be expected of you beyond your best performance. If you are willing to give that, why be timid? So long as you are doing as well as you know how, rest easy. Nobody has any claim to make you do differently. Nobody can flabbergast you.

The former German emperor says he would like to return as a ruler to his country in order "to teach the world how to insure permanent peace." Of all our teachers, our mistakes are the best. After it is all over it is so easy to see how differently it might have been done. Capable foresight is a sublime quality that few have.

A twelve-year-old Chicago boy, son of a poor man, saved the baby daughter of a rich man from drowning. The boy's reward will be an education. He will be sent through school and college. There is no finer reward. It is better than medals and loose money. Instead of having his way made easy, this boy will be put in shape to make his own independent way in the world.

A British explorer, lost to the civilized world for two years, is found living peacefully in the jungle of middle South America. He spends his days hunting and fishing. He was uninterested in news from the civilized world. He wanted to be let alone to live the life of a barbarian.

It's in all of us—the deep-down desire to return to the savage state. The lure of the jungle is constant. There are those who go back into it. Civilization is an artificial state and millions lay on the journey upward. It is a struggle to keep even, to say nothing about going ahead.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

WILLIAM E. BORAH.

William Eglar Borah was born at Fairfield, Illinois, June 29, 1865. He was educated at Southern Illinois academy, Enfield, and the University of Kansas. After being admitted to the bar in 1890 he began to practice law at Lyon, Kansas. In 1890, Senator Borah has lived at Boise, Idaho, since 1891. He has been United States senator since 1907 and, as chairman of the foreign relations committee, is one of the most powerful figures in the senate.

In an article Senator Borah likens violations of the Volstead act to Bolshevists. He says: "The Red sits in his dimly-lighted room, around his poorly-laden table, and denounces the provisions of the constitution placed there to protect property. The White sits in his brightly-lighted room, about his richly-laden table, and defies the provision of the constitution placed there in the belief that they would protect the home.

"I leave it to all good citizens, whether it is not true that both are traveling the road to lawlessness, both sowing the seeds of destruction, both undermining the whole fabric of law and order.

"There are organizations in this country dealing with the subjects of anarchy, communism and Bolshevism, the men who come to these shores to overthrow the provisions of the constitution protecting property are not so reprehensible to him as the men who, reared in this country, violate the prohibition law.

"Let me say here, not all of them, of course, but many of those people of property, many of them who are most agitated over the question of foreign propaganda and its undermining effect on our constitution are the most pronounced, insistent and persistent violators of the eighteenth amendment.

"The hooted, the scouting, noisy rendezvous of lawlessness, of cynical defiance to the eighteenth amendment, is among those of social standing, of large property interests, and in the best homes. Without their patronage, their protection and their example the bootlegger could easily be brought within the control of the law.

"Let these people of influence who insist on satisfying their appetites against the expressed will of the American people—the senator points out that all but two states ratified the amendment—understand that they can not have their property secure, that they can not have their homes safe, that they can not protect their wealth and those things which they deeply cherish if they continue by their examples and by their precepts to sow the seeds of lawlessness throughout the United States."

Dinner Stories.

The caller was young and quite charming. "If you like," said the young man at the desk, "I'll have your poem submitted to the editor."

"N—," she answered positively. "I'll read it aloud to him. I prefer to have the editor submitted to the poem."

A colored man came into a ticket office and asked for two round-trip tickets to Charleston. The agent knew him and asked who was going with him.

"My brother," said the colored man.

"Your brother?" asked the agent. "Where is he?"

"Out there in a box. He's dead," answered the colored man.

"Well, if he's dead you don't want a return ticket for him."

"Yes, suh," said the colored man. "You see we ain't goin' to bury him in Sha'lston; but we have about forty kinsfolks down there, and we figured it would be cheaper to carry him down to Sha'lston fo' de funer'l service and bring him back, than to bring the whole family up here."

Odd and Interesting.

If a flock of sheep are frightened, they will almost invariably run uphill rather than down.

In 1894 the French government published and distributed among the nations an "anarchist album" containing the photographs of about 500 anarchists of international reputation.

There is scarcely a man or woman who has not one shoulder a little lower than the other. The low shoulder is generally the right, for the droop is caused by using one hand and one arm more than the other.

The United States is not the only country in which delays of the law occur. A well-known barrister used to recall a most remarkable case of the kind in England. In 1363 he prosecuted a man who was charged with stealing a leaf from the parish register in 1303.

The Movie People.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

Los Angeles, Sept. 24 — The movie people run in a pack. They mingle little with those outside their gelatinous guild. The nature of their business affords much idleness, but when they work the grind is severe. I have met three who have not worked more than three months in a year.

And each draws a salary equalling or surpassing our president. They are vain folk who like to talk about themselves, yet it seems to me they are very human and likable. They strut with a self-consciousness at public functions, but no more so than many legitimate players.

They live on a grand scale with Jap valets, imported owl-eyed English butlers with British accents and chic French maids. A fad is to have a "personal masseur." The yen to make a splurge has resulted in financial security for many, for in buying homes the property values have made astonishing increases.

The movies bring to Los Angeles thousands who are willing to work at their trades for less money because they feel they have a chance to get important money in the movies. A hairdressing parlor, for instance, in Beverly, closed this week when the proprietor and three cutters got their chance.

Old timers call themselves "L. A. boys." They are mostly from New York having been stock or vaudeville actors when the movies were in infancy. An old-timer who used to do a trick bicycle act in vaudeville, showed me a deed to a $400,000 home. He has been here ten years and was never starred.

Had they clung to Broadway they would likely be living from hand to mouth or spending dreary hours in casting agencies. But most of them long for the big town. They look forward eagerly each week to the arrival of Variety, the theatrical paper, for Broadway news.

The old-timers hang together and watch the new who represent the jazz spirit of the time. There is a sort of outlaw organization known as Poverty row where stars out of work go and act in hurriedly-made movies that are sold to independent houses. An East Side New Yorker is making a fortune out of the venture.

The evening meal is between 5 and 6 o'clock and Los Angeles and Hollywood go to bed early. In the past year night life has almost completely faded. There are a few dance places open, but they are deserted before midnight as a rule. It is a morning town and the bustle is marked until lunch time when a larger percentage of the population drifts off to one of the some thirty golf courses.

There is little of the high pressure effort to sell real estate there was a year ago. Middle-aged ladies will still approach you in public parks, with offers of free rides to see this and that sub-division, but the racket is such an old one few avail themselves. For each passenger they secure they are paid a dollar whether the prospect buys or not. But Los Angeles real estate values have spoken for themselves. Almost any one who buys within a radius of twenty miles from the heart of the city and holds on to it for a few years is likely to realize fair profit and in some instances be made rich. Real estate men have discontinued ballyhoo methods and put the business on a more dignified basis.

I believe many other cities could do what Los Angeles has done by merely "selling themselves." I know a number of cities just as attractive, but the world hears little about them.—Copyright, 1927.

The Golden Text

"Solomon in all his glory" is a phrase which represents a state of splendor which was purchased at tremendous cost of oppressive taxes and intolerable burdens upon his subjects against which they rebelled when his weak and arrogant son, Rehoboam, succeeded Solomon on the throne. The people's complaint and petition to the young king was this: "Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore make thou the grievious service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, lighter, and we will serve thee."

To this just complaint of a sorely oppressed people Rhoboam promised an answer in three days. Meantime he consulted the old men who had been the counsellors of his father, and their advice was that he lighten the burdens of his subjects and treat them with greater consideration. Dispensed with this advice of his elders, he sought the counsel of the young men who had been brought up in ease and luxury with him, and these are the words of their counsel with which this young fool of a king went back to his subjects on the third day: "My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastize you with scorpions. My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins."

Whether his little finger was so much thicker is immaterial. But it is certain that his little head was a good deal thicker than his wise old father, and his subjects knew it and were not forced into subjection as he expected they would be. They rebelled against Solomon's son and the rebellion swept away ten of the twelve tribes into a secession which forever split the throne of David into two rival kingdoms, that of Israel to the north with Samaria as its capitol, and Judah to the south with Jerusalem as its capitol. "There was none that followed the house of David but the tribe of Judah only." Thus the pride and folly of a brainless and heartless youth wrecked a great kingdom.

CHURCH DEDICATION IS BEING PLANNED

Out-of-Town Speakers To Take Part in Reformed Church Exercises

Dedication of the new First Reformed Church, which is nearing completion, will take place on a Sunday within the next few months, the pastor, Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller, said today. Several out-of-town speakers will be obtained for that occasion.

Work of interior decorating, finishing and painting has begun, carpenter work on the exterior being largely completed. The carpet will be laid and pews set within the next few weeks.

With use of the two Sunday School rooms adjoining the main auditorium, the church will seat 600 persons for a service.

BUSINESS SESSION TO BE HELD AT LEE STREET

A business meeting of teachers, assistant teachers and officials of Lee Street Presbyterian Church will be held following the Sunday School service there Sunday morning. Rev. James M. Fisher, pastor, will preside and plans will be made for the coming year's work.

At the 7:30 o'clock service Sunday night Reverend Fisher will preach on the subject, "The Christian's Opportunity."

NO PREACHING WILL BE HEARD AT FOREST LAWN

There will be no preaching services Sunday at Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, which is without a pastor, it was announced today. No decision regarding the calling of a pastor has been made.

Sunday School will convene at 9 o'clock and the young peoples' meeting at 6:30 o'clock as usual.

WOOSTER PASTOR WILL PREACH HERE SUNDAY

Rev. Leonard A. Barrett, of Wooster former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Ann Arbor, will preach at the service at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning at First Presbyterian Church. He has announced as his subject "Paul at Jerusalem." There will be no evening service.

God's Loving Kindness

A SERMONETTE

BY REV. KARL W. PATOW
Pastor, Prospect Street M. E. Church

THE readers of the book of Psalms can scarcely avoid noticing that the writers speak much and often of the goodness and mercy, and the loving kindness of God. In Psalm 36, 5-9 the psalmist again reminds his readers of the excellence of God's loving kindness. He recalls how God has marvelously preserved man and beast, and because of the abundant outflow of His loving kindness and mercy He knows that the children of men shall be abundantly satisfied. The words of the psalmist suggest and remind us of the following:

1. The Fact of God's Loving Kindness

The psalm bears the title, "A Psalm of David." As one recalls the life of David one remembers how abundantly God's loving kindness was bestowed upon him. He had called him from the sheepcot. He had given him strength and wisdom for his tasks. He had preserved him in the moments of grave danger. He had exalted him to be king and ruler of His people. And he had enlarged and established his kingdom. All that he was and had, he was and had by the graces of God. Read Psalm 103 and behold how he recalls how the riches of God's grace have enriched his soul and life.

2. God's Loving Kindness Is Unmerited

"He hath not dealt with us after our sins, nor rewarded us according to our iniquities. For as heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him. As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us. Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him."

3. God's Loving Kindness Is Endless

The mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him, and His righteousness unto children's children."

4. Our Consequent Duty

Despise not the riches of His goodness, and forbearance and long-suffering but rather permit the goodness of God gently to draw thee to repentance. (Rom. 2, 4.)

Trust him to pardon your sins.

"Love him, because he first loved us." Let your whole life be devoted to Him who is so constantly and kindly devoted to thee.

Trust him for the supply of your daily wants.

Trust him for admission into heaven.

STUDENTS TO AID IN CONTEST

Prince of Peace Declamation Event Open to City School Children

Children of the city schools are planning to co-operate with nine local churches in the third annual Prince of Peace Declamation Contest, to be conducted throughout Ohio Schools by the Ohio Council of Churches this fall.

More than twice as many churches have enrolled in the contest this year than for the previous contests.

Contestants are permitted to choose their own declamation from specified speeches. Awards for the winners, last year in the form of scholarships, have not been announced.

REV. G. A. WHITLOCK TO PREACH IN NEW CHARGE

Rev. George A. Whitlock, the new pastor of Wesley M. E. Church, arrived here Thursday night from West Carrollton in company with his wife and three sons and took possession of the parsonage, 205 Oak-st. He will preach his second and third sermons here next Sunday, having been the speaker at the morning service last Sunday at Wesley Church.

Dr. J. D. Darling, former pastor, and his cousin, Miss Mollie Thompson, moved this week to Camden, where Dr. Darling's new charge is located.

BIBLE, HUMAN PROGRESS THEME OF DR. U. S. DAVIS

"The Bible and Human Progress" is the subject of the sermon to be preached by Dr. U. S. Davis, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, as the second in a series of sermons on the general theme, "The Bible," at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night at the church.

Promotion day will be observed at the Sunday School session at 9 o'clock.

HOMECOMING

Trinity Baptist Church Members Planing Event for Oct. 2

Preliminary arrangements are being made by churchmen of Trinity Baptist for "Homecoming Sunday," Oct. 2 at the church. At that time all departments of the church Sabbath School, regular services and B. Y. P. U. will join in the observance, endeavoring to have a record attendance of old members. T. O. McClure has been appointed chairman of the "homecoming committee."

REFORMED PASTOR TO GIVE THIRD SERMON

"The Man Who Can Fill a Gap" To Be Theme Sunday

With his sermon on the subject, "The Man Who Can Fill a Gap," at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night at First Reformed Church, the pastor, Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller will preach the third of a series of sermons on the general topic, "Bible Types of Modern Men and Women."

Reverend Weckmueller discusses both men and women in the series, alternating the sex each Sunday night. Last Sunday his sermon was based on "The Woman of Tact."

TO ASSIST AT SERVICES

Rev. W. C. Bowman, pastor of Wesleyan Mission, Toledo-av, will assist with the closing services of a six weeks tent revival at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night at Morral. Rev. Albert Selber, of New Boston, will be the speaker. There will also be an afternoon service.

BAPTISTS TO MEET OCT. 6, 7

Annual Conference To Be Held at Trinity Church Here Next Month

Arrangements are being made by members of the three local Baptist churches, Trinity, Fite Memorial and Emmanuel, for entertaining the annual conference of the Marion Baptist Association, scheduled to convene here Oct 6 and 7 at Trinity Baptist Church.

Sessions will be held morning, afternoons and evenings of both days of the convention, meals being furnished delegates at a small charge at the church. Entertainment will be arranged for the delegates remaining over night.

The introductory sermon will be given by Rev. Harry Manning of West Mansfield at the opening session Thursday morning. Dr. U. S. Davis, pastor of Trinity Church will conduct devotionals and Rev. S. F. Porter of Prospect, former Marion man, will have charge of the song service. Committees will be appointed and church letters read, after which Rev. Robert Hughes of Dayton will speak on the Ohio Baptist Convention.

Missionary Sermon

In the afternoon a missionary sermon will be given by Rev. E. C. Potorf of Springdale, to be followed by a women's address by Rev. W. G. Evans of Burma, Ind., at 4:10 o'clock. The song service will be in charge of Rev. Wiley S. Young, pastor of Fite Memorial Church, and devotionals under the direction of Rev. E. N. Long, Ostrander. Rev. H. S. Foster of Delaware will have charge of the consecration of church members.

Rev. H. T. Houf, president of Rio Grande College, near Marietta, will be the principal speaker at a B. Y. P. U. rally Thursday night to be in charge of Rev. Earl L. Holliday, pastor of Emmanuel Church. Other features of the service will be the awarding of the B. Y. P. U. Banner and the concert by Radnor Baptist Orchestra.

Friday's Session

Friday's session will open with a song service in the morning led by Reverend Young and with transaction of association business and committee reports. Rev. R. W. Pierce of Richwood will give the doctrinal sermon.

Rev. C. H. Stull of Grandville, secretary of evangelism in the Baptist Church in Ohio, and Wilson A. Holmes of the same city, general director of young peoples work in Ohio, will be the principal speakers at the afternoon session. Mr. Holmes to discuss "Bible School Problems." Reverend Young will lead the singing and Rev. V. P. Powell of Green Camp will conduct devotionals. The session will close with a memorial service and transaction of unfinished business.

The conference will close Friday night with an address by Reverend Stull. Rev. C. E. Sloan, Morral, will lead devotionals and Reverend Young will have charge of the singing. A feature of the service will be a vocal solo by Mrs. Young.

Bicuspids
Fight Bets
New Colors

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

HOBOES have their tough luck the same as the rest of us. If they are lucky enough to strike a back door whose custodian will allow it to remain open long enough to hear his request for a cup of coffee, he sometimes isn't equipped to eat all that is offered with the trimmings. At least that was the fate of a night of the road who stopped at the back door of a friend of mine recently. To others of the household, who hadn't even breakfasted as yet, the dialogue between the dieter and recipient sounded much like what take place at a nice restaurant, where the desire to please was paramount, for such sentences as these wafted on the breeze: "Do you take cream and sugar in your coffee? Would you like some puffed rice and cream? Of course he did, but when it came to saying whether or not he would take jelly on his bread and butter, (once fresh jelly it was too) he had to turn it down. "I have a bad tooth, nussus and when I eat real sweet things it hurts," was his explanation.

• • •

OF course you have paid off all your fight bets ere this, and if the other fellow owed them I know they're paid. I feel like hiring some one to put me on the back for I turned a deaf ear to those who sought to inveigle me into making my shekels say what would get the cut glass bird cage. Oh, I did purchase a small piece of paper with the number four and the champions name on it for two bits, but that didn't mean a thing, for everybody knew the contest would go further than that. Estelle and I had the same hunch as to who would be the winner, in spite of the fact I hoped otherwise, and today I feel as though my psychic apparatus were slightly out of tune with the governing board. Most of the folks that bet however, seem to feel it was in a good cause and that big boy Jack is still a hero getting some bad breaks. One staunch booster for the ex, bore a sigh of relief with the payment of her last bet and announced with a grin, "Well, that over, but if there were another fight tomorrow I'd put my money on Dempsey."

• • •

IF you wish to speak flippantly in regard to the new colors ah et to be kaleidoscoped to make you inscrutable, get out the old game of "animals" popular about, well some few years ago, and brush up a bit. Otherwise you are going to stumped when there is offered for your approval shades of antelope, bear, panther, deer, ivory, gopher, weasel and mole. Needless to say the colors are easily guessed providing you know your animals.

Sally's Shoulders

[illegible] do you want?" she asked [illegible] "Tell me what's on your [illegible] she is snappy. And you [illegible] your hands off my shoul[illegible] you don't mind. Because [illegible]

[illegible]" asked Ted, whose [illegible] began to work as fast [illegible]

[illegible] your hands on my [illegible] told him angrily, and [illegible] off with a sudden twist [illegible]

[illegible] against the railing [illegible] him, waiting for him to [illegible] After a minute or two he [illegible]

[illegible] a pitching hand for me, [illegible] definitely. "I was going [illegible] to have my hands on your [illegible] to have my hands on your [illegible]. It was somehow hurt, [illegible] for him all at once [illegible] he was a nice boy, even [illegible] to marry him. She [illegible] to marry anyone. She [illegible] at Chicago for months [illegible] how much she loved anybody [illegible] she said tensely. "It's not [illegible] like you, Teddy, because [illegible] you that." For he had put [illegible] her as I was thinking [illegible] him with the strong pros[illegible] on her waist.

[illegible] that! I've cried out again [illegible] to push him away from her. [illegible] her hands up against his face [illegible] down close to her own. It [illegible] the face of a stranger—[illegible] it's starry darkness. And [illegible] going to kiss her! The strange[illegible]ness!" said Sally. "[illegible] of her confused racing to her [illegible] in her voice, for the man said [illegible]

[illegible] suddenly let her go. She sank back on the [illegible] porch railing, with her hand up to her mouth as if he actually had kissed it.

"I'm sorry," Ted apologized after a second. "I didn't know you felt this way about me. . . . I thought you liked me all this time while we've been dancing together, going to shows—"

"Oh, but I do!" Sally told him solemnly. "I like you fine, Ted Sloan. And I'd rather dance with you than do anything I can think of. But I hate this!"

She spread out her arms as if to show him that what she meant by "this" was the warm darkness, the solitude, the romance of the summer night.

"I guess I'm sort of hard-hearted and cold," she finished with a little laugh.

"Cold as Greenland's icy mountains," Ted agreed with her. "You sure are, and no mistake about it!" But whether he really though her cold or not, he was not willing to leave her right away. He stood there beside her, puffing at the pipe that he picked up from the porch rail, and went on talking in a low tone almost as if he were talking to himself.

"You see, all along I've thought you were as keen about me as I was about you," he said. "I knew I wasn't making much money, but I knew I'd be making more pretty soon. And I thought you could keep on working for a while after we were married—and look after the house nights and morning, like you do now for your mother. It wouldn't be so hard."

"No," it would not be so hard, said Sally to herself, her eyes on the dark roofs of the houses on the next street. But somehow the picture that Ted was painting for her with his words wasn't the way she had always pictured her married life, when love and marriage should come to her.

She had always thought of herself as a home-maker as well as a wife and a lover. She had imagined herself working all day long in a little house with a little garden somewhere. Getting a meal for a little husband wouldn't cost much, but would be fun to cook. Raking potatoes for the end of the day to powder her nose and fluff up her hair for the return of a husband, a husband who was certain to say that Sally in her wildest dreams!

That was Sally's idea of marriage, and it had no part in the other life in any way. Working at two jobs would be almost like the life it was now. Never enough money to do anything as it should be done.

"But even that wouldn't be so bad if I loved him," thought Sally.

She rocked and put her strong, capable hands on his shoulders for just a minute.

"Ted, we're in very good friends now, aren't we? Let's kiss and forget all this fuss and bother," she asked him. "You don't really care for me, I'm sure of it. You don't much you do!"

He shook his head scornfully. She couldn't know what the little negative meant to him, and while she was wondering he turned and went padding down the steps to the porch below.

"Oh, you're a pickle!" Sally called after him cheerfully. She felt more relieved, somehow, now that he was going. "Oh, you poor polska, why don't you go and cry on somebody else?"

In the living [illegible] two [illegible] sat [illegible] each other, Millie was waiting for her.

She was lying [illegible] the open window, [illegible] the warm night breeze [illegible] her bobbed hair, and she was [illegible] staring up Sally's [illegible] dress with an odd satisfaction.

"Girl, you're [illegible]! What are you doing to my dress?" asked Sally, her eyes wide.

Millie lifted her head. "Can't you see, Dumb Dora?" she asked in her slow, slippery little voice. "Ripping up this dress you threw away."

"I threw away! Why, I never did any such thing!" declared Sally. "And you know it! I told you it wasn't any good the way it was, and I—"

"And you said you were through with it!" broke in Millie. She placidly ripped a few more inches of seam with her blade.

"I'm goin' to make a bathing suit out of it," she added. "It's no good for anything else. You can have what's left for your scrap bag."

"I can have what's left for my scrap bag! Well, that's good, isn't it?" asked Sally. She was scarlet with indignation. She'd been counting on wearing this dress for another two months—and it was cold enough to buy a dark one for the winter.

She rushed across the room and pulled the shreds of stuff from her sister's hands, tossed it up and laid it at the foot of her bed.

"My stars!" she cried, her eyes blazing. "If that isn't just like you—cutting up a good dress! What do you think I'm going to wear to work? Tar paper? Here! If you want to do any sewing you might get busy on these!" She had opened one of Millie's dresser drawers, and was flinging pair after pair of holey stockings at her. "Mend those, if you're so full of pep and want some work to do!"

"Children! Children!" came Mrs. Jerome's voice from the open doorway. "Birds in their little nests agree!"

Every now and then she seemed to forget that her children were grown, and talked to them as if they still were the tiny things they had been years before.

In the hall behind her the telephone trilled, and Millie bounded out to answer it. The one and only time when Millie moved quickly was when she thought one of her "sweeties" might be calling her.

"Hee-ello!" she said now, in the honey-sweet drawl that made men think what a nice, good-natured little thing she was. "Oo-oob, it's you, Mr. Davidson? Oo-oh, I'm just fri-ense—"

Sally set her lips and shook her head in honest wrath.

"Look at that!" she said to her mother in a low intense tone. "Cut up the only two-pieces dress I own to make a bathing suit out of it! Ever hear of such a thing? Now I've got to sew it all together again!"

When Millie came back to the bedroom she had evidently decided not to be on speaking terms with her sister. She pretended not to hear when Sally spoke to her. She combed her own hair, and Sally let her do it.

In silence they got ready for bed. In silence they lay down and went to sleep a few feet away from each other. Sisters.

The next night Bean came home with the new guitar that he had ordered. And not only with the guitar, but with a new and remarkable sports sweater that resembled Joseph's coat of many colors.

"I can play it, too," he said.

"The sweater?" asked Sally, wickedly.

"No, the guitar, you simp," said Bean, who had very little sense of humor.

He could play it, too. That is, he could pick out the tune on it and that was an old one, called "Miami Sunset."

It was a lovely, lilting sort of tune, however, and the sound of it brought Sally from the kitchen, where she was burning with the supper.

"Play it in double time, and I'll show you a few dance that Ted and I made up," she said, her bright eyes dancing. "Play it in double time." And, as he did, she started to dance.

To see Sally dance was a joy. For she loved to dance, and anyone who looked at her could see that she loved it. She frolicked like a happy child on a heavy day. She whirled lightly as a leaf in the wind. Dancers were born, not made, and Sally was a born dancer.

"Atta girl!" she heard a deep voice behind her say, and she stopped dead in the middle of the living room floor. Against the shadowy background of the hall stood a man she never had seen before. A good looking blond man in a gray suit and a necktie striped like a candy cane. The kind of man who knows everything there is to know about some things. A man about town is what we usually call such a man.

"Oh, you must be Millie's Mr. Davidson!" said Sally, all out of breath. And then she saw that Ted had come up the stairs drawn by the sound of music and dancing feet, to watch, and was standing just behind him.

"Come in, both of you!" she said, and left Bean to introduce them.

She rushed back to the bedroom where Millie was making herself beautiful before the mirror.

"Your Mr. Davidson's here!" she told her. "And oh, isn't he good looking!" It was the first time Millie had ever spoken in a whole day.

Millie shrugged her shoulders and looked bored. "He's not half so good looking as that John Nye man," she remarked in a matter of fact way. "And I can hardly wait until I start working for him. This Davidson is just a one-night-a-while for me."

Sally felt as if a sudden wind had chilled her to the marrow.

"Go on in there and talk to him," Millie went on precisely. "If you don't, Ted will try to sell him a car, and Bean's just as likely as not to ask him for a loan. You know it, don't you?"

She opened a pasteboard box that was lying on her bed and took a dress from it. A pale blue flannel dress that Sally never had seen before.

"Why, where did you get that?" she asked, as Millie shook it out and flipped it over her head. "I never saw it before. Is it new?"

Her sister nodded. "It's as new as it ever was," she answered dryly. "And it was pretty new once upon a time."

Sally went back to the living room with a troubling question in her mind . . . Yesterday morning Bean and Millie had both been penniless, or almost penniless. Now each of them seemed to have plenty of money. Where had it come from?

OCEAN RANGERS

DID you ever know a Turtle who insisted upon living in other folks' aquariums? The only Turtles that I ever knew were selfish to another.

"No!" cried the Turtles and the Terrapins and the Tortoises in chorus. Their heads nods on their necks and they nothing better than to be left alone.

"Exactly," agreed the son of the sea. "There is no creature who could take less interest in what goes on about him than myself. But Miss Sea Gull had invited me to a party, and I promised, and now she's sending for me in a motor boat with her Skipper and suggesting as strongly as she could that I accept. I don't like—"

"What kind of a boat?" I asked.

"The only kind I know anything about," he said, "the kind that brought me to you. Now I know what happened Mrs. Seal and called—"

"There, there, there! You might have landed in worse places," protested I, trying to cheer him. "Sea Gulls and those old rocks are not so bad once you become used to them. Besides, you may not have to stay here long, you know."

"Stay Seal-skins, I hope not!" exclaimed my companion. "If I do, why I feel as I believe I'd roll down the rock and let the waves wash me where they would."

"What! Leave your home to look out for a meal?" cried I, and my words brought the mother to her senses. She turned from gazing mournfully out at sea and enabled her little one cheer.

"No, no, no!" crooned she. "Twas the sight I had that made me think of such a thing even for a second. But when I tell you about it I am sure you will agree with me. It was a terrible experience. For months I, with the rest of my tribe, had been ranging the seas. No waves were too rough for us, no winds to wild. We swam and dove and frolicked with the whitecaps and when we were tired we took a nap—rolled over on our backs, poked our heads and feet above the water and, rocked by the swell, slept.

"But one fine morning we awoke to find that spring was on its way. Then we knew we must pull for the shore. For when warm weather comes we Seals know it is time to go to housekeeping, time to stop roaming and settle down to the cares of family life on the land, for the ocean is no place to bring up our helpless babies, you know. They would drown in the first wave."

BEARDS LION IN DEN

"THERE!" I said fastening the last hook upon Mother Graham's gown and turning her so that she faced the full length mirror. "Take a good look at yourself, Duchess, and then pray for humility. You'll never get it any other way after a glance at that reflection."

She gave me a playful little slap upon the shoulder.

"Don't talk nonsense!" she said tartly, but I knew by her eyes that she was far from being displeased. "Run along now to your guests. I'll be down in a minute."

"There aren't any to run down to, just at present," I returned, smiling at her. "The Underwoods and Mr. Veritzen are in their rooms, dressing, and the rest haven't arrived yet."

"One of 'em has," she retorted, "or do you count that young sprig of a Veritzen one of the family? Goodness knows he's underfoot enough to be counted in."

"He was here, but he has gone back to the Tiger house again." I answered, bracing myself for the cross-examination which I knew would follow his statement.

But she astonished me by nodding her head sagely.

"I thought he'd dodge meeting his father at the last minute," she said. "But isn't there anything you can do about? Can't that pig-headed, conceited old bully be made to see reason?"

I saw the opportunity to discuss her probable guests out of pictured mirror, now with our disturbed faces, and promptly seized it, rightly supposing my assistance at her elbow to screen of the great man.

"If I can get a chance to speak to him alone, before the rest come, I'll do what I can to show him that it behooves to meet Ned and the rest in a conciliatory way for Judy's sake."

"I'd go further than that," my mother-in-law retorted, with one of her little jerks of her head. "I'd tell the old man he'd better become reconciled to Ned right away for Judy's heart's sake, if not for Ned's. Ned's a good boy, and working for him I'd not suppose I can get that far. But I'm not going to be disagreeable with him. At least, just leave that to me. I'll look for the opportunity to speak to him. Harry always says I'm good at that."

I agreed her last statement, but silenced at Hilda's door for a few last words and warnings. Never would I forget Mother Graham's contrast that evening, between herself and the old man, as we descended the stairs together. She was all smiles and graciousness, and I knew that she was determined to make a good impression upon her guests, and I knew that she would succeed.

I saw the opportunity to speak to Mr. Veritzen alone, before the rest came, and promptly seized it, rightly supposing my assistance at her elbow to screen my manoeuvre at her client's expense.

"Mr. Veritzen," I said with what I realized later was a pleading note and an agitated manner, "I want to ask you a great favor, but I want you to promise before I tell you what it is that you won't be offended at me, because I can't—"

There was pained astonishment in his eyes.

"You know, my child," he began "that anything in my power—"

He stopped, and his eyes narrowed.

"I suppose this concerns my young cub," he said.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

Hooray for Saturday. Me and Jubilee got up this morning and were doing a peenade around the upstairs bedroom. I was so glad it was Saturday and not at once there was my aunt right down at me, and I was scairt and so was Jubilee, but he said worst. He heard her before I did and went to open the door, and that was a big mistake to me. When she had gotten me up I was crazy and I told her I was sick and she wanted I was but I was not and I told her it would be a good one for it if I was, and she wanted to know what I meant and I said that I had a stomach-ache, and she was so mad I thought she was going to tear me all to pieces, but she finely turned and went downstairs to get dressed, and I got Jubilee's pipe and let him down out of the window. The boys she hasn't got any certainly lucky. But I don't suppose they know it.

When we got the cows we went around past Bunny's and when we found out that the men we hunted was hired and all of Bunny's folks had went away and the flivver was home we made up our mind that we would bring us on a airplane, so Freeman went home and got a couple of canoe paddles and we sawed the ends off and shaved them down and nailed them together and tried to fasten them on to the crank, and we done that all right but we couldn't make the crank keep in so that it would keep turning when the engine turned, and then we hitched the hoss to see what in it come out and now there was a chance to see if the engine was in proper, so in front of the engine so as to see if it was going to come on and pleased it before Bert's father got it.

So we took off the hosses to give it a chance to work and the Bunny drove it and we all got in and I took it out on a country road, that is a dirt road and hardly ever used, and then we sprinkled up and we were looking out over the tops of the trees in the direction we thought we were going to, and when all at once we went through a rail fence and hit a young tree so hard that we bent it over and rode over it almost at the top of it, and then it threw us and we got out and the front wheels were on the ground and the tree was bent over and over us in the air. We were in a heap. So I help and a man came with a hoss and chain and the men dragged the front of the flivver down. He said we were lucky we weren't killed and had to pay us for the hoss. So we rode it home but I let Bunny do it. I don't want it because it is bent and a hoss. I went to bed early for he's father might blame it on me and come over and tell on me.

MISS MARY JACOBS, AGE 11

RELIEF GIVEN TO 11-YEAR OLD GIRL BY THE KONJOLA

Marion Lady Tells How This New Medicine Benefited Her Daughter.

[illegible] an advanced super-tonic [illegible] brought new life energy to [illegible] Marion people. The action [illegible] upon the organs of the [illegible] changes dull sick, tireless [illegible] women to a new feeling of [illegible] regardless of age. A never ending [illegible] of testimonials from Marion [illegible] gives convincing proof of this [illegible] No other medicine is like Konjola. It is the only remedy today receiving such strong indorsement from [illegible] of this section.

[illegible] a few days ago, Mrs. Lucinda [illegible], well known Marion lady, living [illegible] 138 North Grand Ave., this city, [illegible] this voluntary statement to the Konjola man at the Stump & Sims Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is personally meeting the public each day and explaining Konjola:

"Konjola has been a blessing to my little old daughter," said Mrs. Jacobs. "I feel like it is my duty to recommend such a medicine to others who are suffering as she was.

"My daughter was a weak and frail child since her birth. When she reached the age her health was very poor. She didn't care to eat and naturally was very thin. She was dreadfully nervous and often had crying spells over nothing at all. Her case was very puzzling to us and on some occasions she has refused to sleep in school and would have to be awakened when her class was over. No one seemed to know her trouble and we were all worried over her condition. It seemed like nothing in the world could help her and we were about lost hope.

"We decided to give Konjola a trial and I want to offer you my thanks for the medicine. Our daughter has gained 12 pounds in weight, and is getting near what she ought to weigh at her age. Her nerves are improved and she is much stronger and is looking and feeling better. Some of our neighbors who have never seen such a change say it is wonderful before. Her appetite is ravenous and she is always hungry. She has a more healthy color in her face and never complains of being sick like she used to.

"I think it is wonderful how Konjola has benefited her and I certainly intend to give such a medicine any time I can."

The Konjola man is at the Stump & Sims Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is now being sold by the good druggists in every nearby section of this whole section.—Adv.

LIVESTOCK IN TRACK PARADE

Free Vaudeville Acts Help Entertain Throng in Wyandot Grandstand

Upper Sandusky, Sept. 24 — The greater portion of Fair goers yesterday made a beeline for the grandstand with a small part of the crowd making the rounds of the exhibits and displays.

Interest seemed centered in the three races of the day's program. Free vaudeville acts interspersed with much comedy by the clowns entertained the crowd between the heats. The Nevada Eden band made its appearance on the race track during one of the lulls in the racing, heading the parade of livestock out for the crowd's inspection.

The racing program closed as follows:

DELAWARE HIGH TAKES DEFEAT

Marysville Opens Football Season with 51-0 Runaway on Home Field

Marysville, Sept. 24—The Red and Blue warriors of Marysville High school opened the football season with flying colors yesterday afternoon, defeating Delaware high school by a big added score of 51 to 0.

The fray began with the locals receiving the kickoff by Capt. Campbell of Delaware. Edge received the kick-off and after a series of passes and downs the pigskin was carried over the line by Galloway, for Marysville. The next touchdown came in the second quarter by Simpson, who took the ball over on an end run. The try for the extra point failed. Another touchdown was made by Edwards, captain and end for the locals, when he received a forward pass for a touchdown. The try for the extra point again failed leaving score 19 to 0.

The Delawares seemed to gain strength on the defense in the last quarter and held the locals until the latter part of the game, when Galloway carried the ball over for the sixth touchdown of the game. Tr. for point was good. The last touchdown was scored by Smith, for the locals, just as the gun cracked, closing one of the decisive victories in the history of the school. Score 51 to0.

Line up:

Marysville—51: Edwards, le, capt; Kleiber, lt; Schreiderer, lg; Mader, c; Brown, rg; Edge, rt; Mackan, re; Baker, q; Mills, lh; Bump, rh; Simpson, fb.

JEWS ARRANGE FOR SERVICES

Program Announced fdr Observance of New Year Holiday Here

Members of the Jewish congregation will observe the festival of the New Year, or Rosh Hashanah, with services Monday night and Tuesday morning in the temple room in the auditorium of the City National Bank Building, E. Center st, with Henry Strelitz, president. Mrs. Victor E. Dombaugh will be in charge of the music for both services, which will be furnished by members of the choir. Services will begin Monday night at 7:30 o'clock and Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The sermon subject Monday night will be "The Fear of Life," and Tuesday morning Mr. Strelitz will speak on "The Call of the Soul."

The holiday begins at sunset Monday night, and ends at sunet Tuesday night.

The festival is distinguished by the blowing of the Shofar or ram's horn. In addition to its joyous and optimistic character, it is one of great solemnity and sacredness. On Rosh Hashanah the worshipers recall to mind the misdeeds of the past year with a view to consecrating themselves to a nobler life during the years to come. The religious service which marks the observance of the Holy day emphasizes that the door to improvement and betterment is constantly open.

The New Year is the beginning of the most sacred of the Jewish holiday seasons. It is the first of the Ten Days of Penitence, culminating in the Day of Atonement, the holiest and most sacred day in the Jewish calendar. A few days after the Day of Atonement, the Feast of Succoth or Tabernacles is celebrated during a period of eight days, in commemoration of the ancient Palestinian harvest festival and of the wanderings of the Israelites through the wilderness.

ACCUSED MINISTER GUARDED BY POLICE

"Amnesia" Defense Offered by Man Held in Michigan on Bigamy Charge

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 24—The Rev. Willis F. Jordan, the "amnesia bridegroom," lay on a creaking cot in detention hospital today, a police guard at his side, stoically idling away his time until the arrival of sheriff's officers from Charlotte, N. C.

Jordan said he was eager to be returned to the south so he could fight the accusations of bigamy, wife desertion and misappropriation of funds that have been pouring in over a week since he disappeared from Columbus, Ga. He said he would not fight extradition.

Decides To Return

"I have decided to go back and plead my case before God, the judge, the jury and man, and tell them if there are other marriage records against me it all happened while I was suffering from frequent spells of amnesia," he declared.

Jordan was arrested Friday by local sheriff's officers at the home of Mrs. Ella Thomas, 50, where he had been since his release from St. Mary's hospital, according to police reports.

Before he admitted his identity he had told police he came here to marry Mrs. Thomas. The widow retains faith in him.

SEWING ARRANGED

All ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal Church are invited to a sewing at the home of Mrs. O. S. Rapp, 213 S. Greenwood-st, at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, it was announced today. The goods will be sold at a bazaar shortly before Christmas.

Novel Topic is Selected By Upper Sandusky Church

Upper Sandusky, Sept. 24—"What Would Happen If All Church Members Were Really Christians?" is the novel topic for discussion at the young people's meeting of the Trinity Evangelical Church Sunday night. Miss Naomi Neate will be the leader of the meeting. Rev. N. W. Sager will follow the service with a sermon on "Paul's Preparation." For the morning service, Reverend Sager has prepared a sermon on "The Life with God."

The young people of the Methodist Episcopal Church are planning an Epworth League rally for their service with Miss Lottie Howes as leader. A record effort will be made in the next few weeks to increase the attendance and build enthusiasm in this department of church work. Rev. C. R. Williamson, the pastor, has as his morning sermon subject, "A Master Workman" and for the night service, "Where Shall We Find Guidance?" will bring the old thought in a new way to the congregation.

The subject of Rev. George W. Good's sermon in the morning at the Trinity Reformed Church is, "Going Forward," and the night service, "Personal Responsibility" will furnish a theme for the sermon.

No Night Service

No night service will be held at the Presbyterian Church. Rev. P. H. Weaver, Tiffin, will speak to the congregation in the morning.

Sunday school will be held at the English Lutheran church but no preaching services. A special committee appointed last Sunday to find a suitable pastor for the church has not been able to locate a minister for this Sunday.

The Christian Science Society will have services in the morning with readings from the subject, "Reality."

Rev. Father John R. Force will celebrate two masses at St. Peter's Catholic church Sunday morning.

Rev. C. F. Betz will occupy the pulpit at the 10:30 service of the day for St. Paul's Lutheran church when the follows Sunday school in the morning. The Luther League convention will be held at Jenera, Oct. 9 according to announcement just received.

Wednesday night prayer services will be conducted in the following churches this week: Methodist, Evangelical and

NATIONAL AIR RACES CLOSE

Greatest Mass Aerial Contests in History Reach Climax at Spokane

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 24—Finis will be written across the sky in fire and smoke tonight when the national air races come to a close after a week which aviation enthusiasts declare has witnessed the greatest mass aerial contests since man first started to fly.

As today's packed program was started, officials of the National Air Derby Association of Spokane were awaiting word from Rene Fonck, French aviator, in reply to the association's invitation that he come to Spokane from New York in a non-stop flight instead of proceeding to San Francisco.

Numerous Contests

Today's program is to include a free-for-all race for the western flying trophy and $2,000 in prizes, a sport pace contest between baby planes for an Aero Digest trophy, the contest for the Liberty engine builders' trophy for observation type planes, the Dayton Daily News race for light planes, which carries a trophy and $1,000 in prizes, and the Packard Motor Car Co. races for large capacity planes.

In addition the Spokane Review race for military pursuit planes with army, navy and marine flyers competing, will be held. Finals in the national parachute contest with nine men leaping from soaring planes for a white circle on the ground will also be undertaken.

PERSHING REFUSES TO JOIN TOURISTS

Remains in Paris as Legion Leaders Start European Trip

Paris, Sept. 24—One of the most important events on the program of the American Legion's pilgrimage to Paris got under way today when 250 past commanders of the Legion left Paris in two special trains for a two-weeks' tour of Europe. The tour will include visits to Brussels, Rome, London, Metz, Strasbourg and Nice.

General John J. Pershing did not accompany the tour, which fact caused considerable embarrassment to Legion officials, as advance information had said General Pershing was to head the party.

General Pershing, it is understood here, changed his mind and decided not to accompany the tour, taking the position that the Legion's pilgrimage was officially a pilgrimage to France, and not one to all of Europe. Therefore the general decided that when he leaves France his destination will be the United States. Some of the Legionnaires were disconcerted by General Pershing's action, but there was nothing they could do about it.

VANDALS SUSPECTED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Officials Probe Theory That Sinister Forces Cause Tragedy in Germany

Berlin, Sept. 24—Investigation of the theory that the airplane which crashed at Schleiz, Thuringia, yesterday, causing the death of Ambassador Ago Von Maltzan and five others, had been tampered with by vandals bent on sabotage, will be conducted the air ministry announced today.

Not Satisfied

The air ministry stated that it was not altogether satisfied with the report that the crash was purely accidental. Certain conditions indicated strongly that some sinister forces may have been working behind the catastrophe, it was said.

The commission which was appointed by the ministry to investigate the crash, is now working on the theory that the propellor may have been tampered with.

The body of Baron Von Maltzan, who was German ambassador to the United States, has been brought to the village of Schleiz.

NEGRO PLEADS GUILTY IN MANSFIELD MURDER

Mansfield, Sept. 24—Arthur Gray, negro, pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree murder here today when arraigned for the stabbing to death of George Williams, negro in a dice game last night. He was bound over to the grand jury without bond.

DAMAGE ACTION

Suit Filed As Aftermath of Cow Shooting

Marysville, Sept. 24—Damages to the extent of $300 are asked in a suit filed in the court of Justice of the Peace W. F. Broderick, by Garfield Woods against Ernest Wilcox, both of Liberty township. Woods charges that May 31, 1927, Wilcox intentionally shot three of the former's cows when the broke out of pasture and came on his land. He claims that the shooting has caused damages in the stated amount, because of veterinary assistance, and cost of fences to clean from the carcasses. The case will be heard next Tuesday. Wilcox is under indictment of the grand jury charged with shooting the cows.

BUILDING PERMITS FOR WEEK RECORD

Total Estimated Value of Property Provided in Issuances $47,805

Twenty-three building permits for dwellings taken out by W. T. Jones, real estate man Thursday afternoon, placed the building activities for the week far in advance, in the number of permits issued, of any week this year. A permit for a dwelling to cost $6,000 taken out yesterday afternoon by M. L. Key, 259 Forest st, swelled the permits for dwellings issued during the week to 24.

The total estimated value of the property provided for in permits issued during the week was $47,805. Of the 36 permits issued, eight were for garages with an estimated value of $975 and three were for porches on an estimated value of $515.

TUSCARAWAS COUNTY SCHOOLS TO CONVENE

Opening Authorized Monday Despite Epidemic; Attendance Not Compulsory

New Philadelphia, O., Sept. 24—Schools of Tuscarawas County will open Monday, it was reported here today, despite the epidemic of infantile paralysis that has swept the county. There are still 30 active cases of the disease in the county, according to records of the county board of health.

Superintendents of schools here, Dover and at Uhrichsville have declared they will open their schools, but will not insist that children attend sessions for a week at least.

The county board of health, in permitting schools to open, cautioned the various school districts of the county that the opening of the schools should be guided by local conditions, and that the withdrawal of the quarantine did not require that the schools must open.

Two new cases were reported today in Oxford township near New Comers town.

280 CASES LISTED IN OHIO THIS MONTH

Columbus, Sept. 24 — So far this month, 280 cases of infantile paralysis in Ohio, including 19 deaths, were officially reported to the state health department, it was announced today. During August 315 cases were officially reported.

NO TIDINGS FROM HOLLYWOOD PLANE

Actress and Pilot Forced Down in Wilds of West, Is Fear

Los Angeles, Sept. 24—Grave fear was expressed here today for the fate of Marion Mack, Hollywood film actress, and her pilot, Frank Tomick, whose plane, "Miss Hollywood" is believed to have been forced down in the desert stretches of Nevada or in the mountains of Utah while on an attempted flight from the film capital to Chicago.

The actress-flier and her pilot took off from Clover Field last Wednesday bearing a good will mesage from the film colony to Dempsey which was to have been delivered to the boxer before he stepped into the ring with Gene Tunney.

The plane dropped out of sight almost immediately after the start.

None of the four cagrier pigeons, carried on the flight, had returned to their roost today.

A school for the training of women detectives has been opened in London by a retired Scotland Yard official.

KENTON TEAM BEATS NORTH BALTIMORE

Red and White Outfit Wins Grid Opener by Lone Touchdown

Kenton, Sept. 24—Playing their first game of the season, the Kenton high school gridders triumphed over North Baltimore high 7 to 0 in a somewhat slow contest yesterday at Athletic Field. On Sept. 30 the locals will oppose LaRue there.

North Baltimore was for from being the formidable team that handed Kenton High her only defeat last year.

The locals scored their first touchdown in the opening quarter, Arthur, fullback, going over the line following a plunge off right tackle. At no time during the game was Kenton's goal in any real danger.

Arthur, through his line plunging, and Barker quarterback, were the outstanding stars for the locals.

TO TAKE ACTION

Kenton Council Will Decide on Rail Crossing Safety Device

Kenton, Sept. 24—Formal action on the request of the Erie Railroad Co. to replace its crossing watchman at the Main-st crossing with 24-hour electric flasher light warning signals, will be taken by city council at its meeting on Oct. 4.

While the special council committee named to view the request of the carrier favored the change, since it would provide a full 24-hour service as compared with the 11-hour service now accorded by the watchman, the legislative body withheld definite action until after the members could inspect plans and specifications for the new warning device.

King Football Reigns on Hundreds of Gridirons Today

No Intercollegiate Games In Big Ten; Buckeye A. A., Ohio Conference In Action

Eyes of the Country on Rockne of Notre Dame; Stagg, with Light Material, Turns to Passing Game; Both Teams Considered Dangerous

BY GENE HOFFMAN

C[illegible], Sept. 24—Timid and [illegible]certain, football, the king of [illegible] sport, will make its 1927 [illegible] hundred American gridirons [illegible]

[illegible]day's games are little [illegible]practice this for the big [illegible]some later, the results will [illegible] with interest as a clue to [illegible]be expected from the various [illegible] which are destined to battle [illegible]ionship and intersectional [illegible]

[illegible]es are scheduled in all sec[illegible]of country.

[illegible]throughout the middlewest [illegible]dy on Notre Dame and two [illegible]other non-conference teams [illegible]always a threat to sectional [illegible]supremacy. None of the [illegible]ference schools have games [illegible]except scrummage tests be[illegible]and second string teams.

Has Rockne got?" is a cry from coast to coast about this [illegible]ey year. The secret may not [illegible]up today as the Irish clash [illegible]their own freshmen squad.

[illegible]ssful coach of Notre Dame [illegible]ood to have a few new tricks [illegible]well-known sleeve, most impor[illegible]tant of which is said to be a new style of attack. Whether this will be unleashed this afternoon against the freshmen remains to be seen.

Rockne is always a fascinating mystery at the opening of the pig-skin season and this year is no exception. His 1927 charges number many unknown quantities.

Other mid-western games that will be watched closely today are: Marquette versus St. Viator at Milwaukee, Butler versus Indiana Normal at Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Kentucky Wesleyan at Cincinnati, Michigan State vs. Kalamazoo Aggies at East Lansing, Mich. and Detroit versus Adrian at Detroit.

University of Chicago is one of the big mysteries of the Western Conference this year. Coach Alonzo Stagg, veteran exponent of line-bucking plays, is said to be converted to the passing game. He was quickened to this decision by the lightness of this year's backfield.

Stagg has been drilling his charges twice daily, much of the time being devoted to developing the fast aerial plays. The squad will get its first test of the season next Saturday against Oklahoma. One week later the Maroons open the conference season against Indiana.

• • •

Columbus, Sept. 24—Sandwiched in between a heavyweight boxing championship an da world series, Ohio college football will make its bid for public favor on an even dozen gridirons this afternoon, with Ohio conference teams taking on "practice" eleven in most cases. Preliminary to the opening of the nine week conference program next Saturday.

Five of the "Big Six" teams will swing into action, to test their mettle in contests[illegible]ers today.

Cincinnati university clashes with Kentucky Wesleyan on a night game at Cincinnati, while the Hanover, Indiana college harriers go to Oxford to meet Miami. The latter squad, composed of veterans almost exclusively, is favored by the dopesters for an easy win.

Ohio Wesleyan entertains Wilmington college on the Bishops' home grid at Delaware, and may run up a score. Coach Tartar, of the Wesleyan eleven is rated among the best in the school's history, while the Redskins are said by their coaches to be only "fair."

Ohio university will take on the Rio Grande warriors at Athens, expecting an easy victory, while Wittenberg will feel out its gridiron power against Findlay college at Springfield.

Among other schools Defiance plays Heidelberg at Tiffin; Kent State Normal meets Kenyon college at Gambier; Slippery Rock Normal plays Mt. Union at Alliance; Bowling Green Normal journeys to Westerville for a game with Otterbein; and St. Xavier entertains Morris Harvey college at Cincinnati.

Two other games in which Ohio fans have an interest are the battle between Morgantown, W. Va., between West Virginia Wesleyan and West Virginia University, and the Marysville, Tenn., college vs. Kentucky State university clash at Lexington.

GIANTS TAKE ANOTHER GAME FROM PIRATES

WINS FIGHT BET, REFUSES MONEY

New York, Sept. 24—Sam Zaret, Far Rockaway, who won $2,500 when Gene Tunney was given a decision over Jack Dempsey Tuesday night, has refused to accept his winnings because he believes Tunney was knocked out fairly by Dempsey in the seventh round.

"Tunney's victory is open to some considerable question in my mind because I believe he received a long count," Zaret explained.

CHANGES IN RULES BECOME EFFECTIVE

Opening Games To Place New Football Regulations in Operation

New York, Sept. 24—Spectators at more than 100 football games throughout the country will see several new rules in operation today. Some will make the game more open; others will tend to rob the sport of spectacular features.

In addition to the forward pass, lateral and backward passes will be used. In the event one of these plays a fumble interference for the runner.

The attacking side after kicking from scrimmage, will not be allowed to advance the ball after pouncing upon fumbled kicks.

The new shift rule requires that all players come to a complete stop for a period of one second.

The goal posts will be set back 10 yards, to prevent players from hitting the posts on a line plunge and to make the point after touchdown harder.

"LITTLE WORLD SERIES" OPENING SET FOR SEPT. 28

New York, Sept. 24—Opening of the "Little World's Series" between the Buffalo Bisons of the International League and the winner of the American Association race, as yet undetermined, has been tentatively set for Sept. 28 by John Conway Toole, president of the International League. The series will start in the city which wins the American Association race.

Half the guessing about a scandal comes pretty nearly being accurate.

Motor-Boat Owners

The majority of motor-boat owners follow the lead of famous boat racers by using Champions.

The experience of these daring men is convincing proof that for utmost speed, power and, above all, dependability, use Champions.

Champion is the better spark plug because of its double-ribbed sillimanite core—its two-piece construction and its special analysis electrode.

NEW YORK MUST WIN TODAY TO STAY IN LEAGUE TITLE RACE

Pittsburgh Leading by Two and One-Half Games; Cards Lose to Boston

BY LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—The Giants who made it two out of three by scoring a second successive victory over Pittsburgh yesterday tackle the Pirates for the first time today in a game that undoubtedly will make or break the New Yorkers. They are only 2 1-2 games behind the leaders this morning but must win the final game in order to stay in the running.

A victory for New York also would revive the drooping Cardinals, whose defeat by the Boston Braves yesterday cost them second place and left them three full games behind the Pirates.

Needs Six Victories

Pittsburgh still needs six victories in its remaining eight games to clinch the pennant, provided New York and St. Louis make a clean sweep. Even if the Pirates win only five out of eight, however, the Giants and Cardinals cannot afford to lose a single game.

The Giants "pulled a Tunney" yesterday, tossing out the Pirates 6 to 5, after they apparently had been knocked out. Led by Joe Genewich, who walloped a triple with the bases full, the Blues knocked Burly Grimes and led 5 to 0. The Giants finally got to Carmen Hill, however, and gave him the works. Johnstone singled with the bases jammed in the seventh, and in the ninth he came home with the winning run after tying the score with a triple.

Homer Wins Game

Fournier's homer in the ninth enabled Joe Genewich of the Braves to win a 3 to 2 duel from old Pete Alexander of the Cardinals. After Hafey had created a homer with one on in the last inning, Genewich stood for no nonsense from the Cards.

The Cubs, who still have an outside chance to finish in the money, tagged Alex Ferguson and "weeping" Willoughby for 17 hits and plastered the Phillies, 10 to 0. Hal Carlson toyed with the Phils, formerly his fellow mates in the Baker gallery.

After the Reds had trounced Brooklyn 6 to 5, Ray Moss, Brooklyn rookie from Memphis, subdued the Perkinsville crew and won his own game with a triple, 4 to 3.

In the only game played in the American league, the White Sox ended their losing streak of twelve games by coming out the Red Sox, 2 to 1.

Still Confident He Can Whip Tunney, Jack Says

Plans To File Protest Against Seventh Round Count

Chicago, Sept. 24—"I still think I can whip Gene Tunney."

The words are Jack Dempsey's, and they were uttered with considerable vehemence today as the battle-scarred ex-champion refused the contention of his manager, Leo P. Flynn, that he had been "counted out" of the decision Tuesday night in the seventh round of his championship fight with Tunney.

Dempsey declared he would file immediately a protest with the Illinois Athletic Commission. Flynn filed a protest of the decision yesterday but the commission would not entertain it because it was not signed by Dempsey.

Time for Recovery

"When Tunney fell I did go into a corner," said Jack Dempsey heatedly. "The pictures show I was behind Tunney. Still the count was halted while the referee made me go into another corner. Those seconds were years then. They gave Tunney time to recover and that cost me the championship."

While Dempsey has little hope of getting the commission to alter the decision, he said he felt justified in filing the protest. Regarding Tunney, he said:

"Tunney is a great boxer. I don't suppose there is a better skilled man in the ring. But I can whip him. I knocked him out Thursday night and I can do it again."

Dempsey denied that his ring career is over.

"Of course," he said, "I may never get another fight. But I feel that I'm in as good condition as ever, and if a fellow will stand up and fight with me I can whip him.

Public's Attitude

"I read that Tunney said he didn't think the public would want to see us fight again. But I don't think the public is any too well satisfied with a champion who gets knocked down for 13 to 16 seconds at a time."

Dempsey said he disliked running the chances of being called a "squawker," adding:

"But I guess the public knows me well enough to know that I'm not going to complain unless I have a real grievance.

"I honestly believe I had Tunney knocked out, and I believe I could do it again."

Tunney Invited to Defend Title in Battle at Chicago; Champion Plans Acceptance

Invitation Extended by Business Men of City at Luncheon Given in Gene's Honor Today; July 4 Set as Date; Wants No "Set-Up," Tunney Says

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—Gene Tunney, successful defendant of his heavyweight championship title in a great fight two nights ago, will be greeted by Chicago business men at noon today to return here next July 4 to meet the best man available with the championship at stake. The invitation will be extended during a luncheon at which Tunney will be the guest of the local committee of business men whose efforts resulted in bringing the Tunney-Dempsey fight to Soldiers' Field on Thursday night.

Tunney Will Accept

The invitation, it is understood, will receive an informal acceptance from the champion, with the agreement that this acceptance can only be considered binding in the event that his opponent is a first class man.

This morn Tunney took down the morning in a conversation with an emissary of the committee. The champion's motives, as expressed on this occasion, was that only the best man would be acceptable and that he only could be determined through a series of eliminations, including Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, Paulino and others.

"I want no set-up for my next fight," Tunney declared. "Get me the strongest man in the field and the match is yours. If Rickard can line up the candidates as he did this year I am sure that the best man available will be the survivor and, in that case, his meeting with the world be favorable."

Tunney Unmarked

Tunney was almost unmarked as result of his strenuous seventh round with Dempsey, during which he sat on the floor, dazed, for nine and a fraction seconds, but got up in time to save his title. He disposed with a wave of the hand Leo P. Flynn's assertion that he had been counted out.

"I sat there and listened for nine, when I heard it, I got up," he said, and when I got up I beat Dempsey. That should tell the story."

In assessing the probabilities of his return to Chicago next summer for another championship match, Tunney waxed eloquent about the city, its surroundings, its officials, the public and its treatment of him.

Likes Chicago

"I owe Chicago a great debt," was his parting word. "And if Chicago, in its turn would help repay that debt, I am ready to return if it is possible. The welcome I received here on my arrival will remain in my memory forever. The way I have been treated here by all with whom I have come in contact affords me another pleasant memory. I would like to add another experience.

"Then, there was the handling of that great crowd. It was perfect. Everything was disciplined and order and I think such an occasion is a tribute to the game and the real men that are in it."

CASE LOSES FLETCHER

Cleveland, Sept. 24—Bob Fletcher, football coach at Case, today had learned that Ray Wintrich, outstanding candidate for the center position on this year's eleven, will not return to school. Fletcher says, however, that he has several other good prospects for the position and that his team is rapidly rounding into shape for the opening game against Baldwin-Wallace, a week from today.

LA RUE TOPPLES CRESTLINE 37-0

Railroaders Never Threaten; Scores Made on Straight Football

LaRue, Sept. 24—LaRue High school football team ran wild over the Crestline high school aggregation Friday afternoon to pile up 37 to 0 score.

LaRue played consecutively in the first half and scored a touchdown by straight football. Crestline was constantly in danger, all the playing being done in Crestline territory. In the second half the local lads opened up and scored five touchdowns and Captain Greenwood added one point with a drop kick after touchdown having failed in the other five attempts.

Punts Blocked

Carter, LaRue giant tackle, blocked two of Crestline's punts while Wilson accepted another.

LaRue's team considerably outweighed the boys from the railroad town and the contest got on uneven in the final quarter that Coach Moore used practically his entire second team.

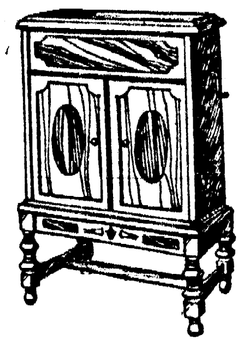
YOU'RE THERE WITH A CROSLEY



The new "Crosley" is far ahead of any set at any where near the same price. Let us demonstrate.

Many features of this set heretofore have been found only in the most expensive radio.

Now the great resources embodied in the engineering skill and patents of The Crosley Radio Corporation—The Radio Corporation of America—The Westinghouse Company—The General Electric Company—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company—The Hazeltine Corporation and The Latour Corporation are at Crosley's command and Crosley presents to the world a supreme achievement in radio efficiency and an unprecedented value at $55.

We are also headquarters for Van-Bur Radios—Van-Bur Long Tone Travel Speakers and all radio accessories. See the new battery eliminators that will enable you to run your set directly from the electric light current.

No matter what your Radio Problems are, we can solve them.

EXIDE SUPPLIES A RADIO NEED LONG SOUGHT AFTER The "AB" Socket Power Unit

An "AB" socket power unit with the unequalled advantage of storage batteries—here it is perfected at last! The ideal in radio power, developed by Exide engineers so that through a single unit you can always have ample "A" and super "B" power with full, automatic control from your set switch.

So ingenius is this Exide unit that there is nothing to get out of order or cause trouble and annoyance. And it is positively safe. You simply connect it up to your set and plug it in base plug or light socket.

After that your radio power supply—for both "A" and "B" circuits—takes care of itself. Its operation is as simple as operating an electric light in your living-room—all you have to do is snap your set switch on and off. When you are receiving a program the unit furnishes the current. When you cut off your set, the power previously consumed is automatically replaced through your house lighting supply.

Rise of General Motors Features Market Rally

BULLS EASILY HOLD CONTROL

Strength of Market Leaders Demonstrated in Today's Short Session

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks, inactive; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, steady; foreign bonds, steady; grain, firm; copper firm; oil, irregular; cotton, firm; rubber, steady; sugar, steady; pig iron, irregular; foreign exchange, steady.

New York, Sept. 24—Under the leadership of General Motors, old and new stock, Houston Oil and a small number of the market specialties, a sharp rally in prices was set in motion at the beginning of today's short session of the stock market.

General motors jumped 5 points to above 209 in the first period, in response to rumors that the directors at the November meeting would definitely place the new stock on a $7 dividend basis in addition to ordering an extra dividend of $2 a share. Bullish forces easily carried the day as the price of this recognized leader was swept along in a confident wave of new buying. The old stock reached 271 before the end of the first half hour in one of the most impressive "bullish demonstrations of the week."

Source Drying Up

The failure of any great volume of liquidation to reach the market in the last two days and the virtual drying up of the source of supply of speculative stocks on a falling price movement, was taken as an evidence of the surprising strength of the market at this time. The week-end business reviews were colorless as far as the indications of the fall business revival were concerned.

Announcement of the giant combination of Philadelphia and New York utility companies into a $700,000 merger stimulated active buying of the utility stocks. Consolidated gas resumed its spectacular forward move, while Philadelphia company and other well-known light and power stocks were taken at the best level of prices for the current movement. An enormous expansion in public utility series is now under way.

Resumes Advance

The sharp advance in Houston Oil, inaugurated near the close of Friday's session, was also resumed today and the stock sold above 153 for a gain of 10 points in the two sessions. Wall street heard that powerful banking interests had entered into the active management of the company's affairs, with a view to a broad development of its facilities for supplying gas light to a widening territory.

Bullish pools pressed their advantage in the closely held industrial and specialty stocks, but on the whole the market revolved in a narrow radius.

The week-end commodity markets were devoid of special interest. Liquidation of cotton resulted in a moderate downward movement at the start, while wheat and corn gained more than a cent a bushel each in the Chicago and Kansas City grain markets. Copper buying was in good volume.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW $200,000 DROP THIS WEEK

With a decline of more than $200,000,000 under that of last week, bank clearings for the past week reached the lowest point in the past several months. The clearings for the week as reported by the Marion Savings Bank this morning were $187,600,93 while clearings last week were $386,158.43.

On only one day, Thursday, were the clearings more than one hundred thousand dollars. The clearings for each day were reported as follows: Saturday, $73,164.94; Monday, $87,331.77; Tuesday, $89,152.82; Wednesday, $54,360.40; Thursday, $103,170.72; Friday $79,518.48.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Thus morning found markets well supplied with large stocks of all seasonable vegetables. Prices were varied with leaders being offered by various dealers at various prices. Green and yellow wax beans were being offered today at four pounds for 25 cents, over yesterday's offer of three pounds for 25 cents. Jersey sweets were also being offered today at seven pounds for 25 cents. Dry onions were being quoted this morning at 10 pounds for 35 cents and celery at three bunches for 25 cents. Sweet corn, which is becoming scarce, showed no change today, a price of 20 cents being quoted. A large stock of cabbage was being carried by dealers today. It was selling at three cents for the green and 10 cents for the red.

Peaches were being quoted today at from $1.90 to $2.25 a bushel. The supply was not large and dealers predict that next week will see the end of the peach crop, some New York peaches will be on the market, they say, but the price will be above the $3 mark. Pears for canning were being offered this morning at from $1.50 to $2.00 a bushel. Other fruit prices were steady. Malaga grapes were being quoted at two pounds for 25 cents and Tokays at three pounds for 25 cents.

ARREST YOUTH WANTED AT UPPER SANDUSKY

On a warrant filed by the police department of Upper Sandusky yesterday charging him with burglary, Francis Settles, 20, was arrested at 404 E. Center-st at 5:20 o'clock this morning and taken back to that place by Upper Sandusky police later in the morning. Settles, according to the police, had committed a number of burglaries in Upper Sandusky in the last several weeks. Two rubber covered wires such as are used by automobile thieves in starting the engine, were found in his possession, police say.

MAN ARRESTED HERE ON COAL THEFT CHARGES

Hayden Cornwell, 42, of 194 John-st who was accused by Big Four detectives of having secured a generous supply of coal at the expense of the railroad company, was arrested early last night when Detective G. A. Smith of the Big Four police, found nearly a ton and one-half of coal in a shed at the Cornwell home. He was locked up at police headquarters pending a hearing before Judge Martin in municipal court.

NO TRACE FOUND OF SCHOOL BURGLARS

Checks and Money Taken From Principal's Desk; Boys Believed Responsible

No trace of the burglars, thought to have been boys, who broke into the Central Junior school sometime Thursday night, has been found by the police. According to the report made to the police, the burglars who gained an entrance to the building by forcing a rear door, stole two checks, one for $27 and the other for $24 and also took $15 in cash. They money and checks were taken from the desk in the office of the principal.

In addition to taking the money and checks, the intruders broke transoms above several of the doors and in one case tore a door from the hinges. Desks in the rooms were ransacked and drawers in several of the teachers desks were forced open. Aside from the money, however, nothing was taken. Small hand prints found by the police lead them to think that the burglary was committed by boys.

FIREMEN CALLED WHEN SMOKE FILLS BAKERY

An odor of burning wood which had puzzled employes of the Quality Bakery on W. Center-st for several days, was traced to its source by city firemen this morning. They were called at 8 o'clock when it was feared a fire might break out in the absence of employes.

The smoke was traced to the floor beneath a concrete slab which served as a support for a steam boiler. The slab had become thoroughly dried out and the constant heat from the boiler had charred the floor on which the slab rested. The flooring will be removed from beneath the slab to prevent any further danger of fire.

SPECIFICATIONS FOR BOULEVARD FILED

Figures on Vernon Heights Improvement Before County Commissioners

Specifications for the improvement of Vernon Heights Boulevard were filed with the Marion County Commissioners today by County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens.

The road will be macadamized with proper drainage system, according to the surveyor's specifications. The proposed improvement will be from 20 to 40 feet in width and 3,586 feet in length.

Excavation of the roadway and the installation of the drainage system at a cost of $8,853.25 is provided in the proposal.

Five proposals were filed by Surveyor Leavens for the paving. The first proposal was the lowest of the number, calling for the total expenditure of paving a sum of $39,480.87. Other proposals had the cost as high as $62,522.17.

Dates for hearing will be set by the county commissioners in the near future.

IGNORES POLICE, CLAIM

L. N. Mays, 18, of Columbus, was arrested on S. Main-st early last night when he refused to move from a no-parking zone when requested to do so by a patrolman. He put up a bond for his appearance in court on Oct. 1.

NOTICE OF ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Notice is hereby given that the County Commissioners of Marion County, Ohio, have determined to improve the following described road in Marion County, to-wit:

"Situated in Marion Township, Marion County, Ohio, and extending from the north line of Virginia Avenue on the west drive and north side of Vernon Heights Boulevard; thence west to Leetonia Road, thence west on both sides of Vernon Heights Boulevard to a point 141 feet east of Delaware Avenue or the Marion-Delaware Road. All in Sections 26 and 27, Marion Township, Marion County, Ohio.

The compensation, damages, costs and expenses of said improvement have been apportioned to be paid in the following manner, to-wit: All the compensation damages, costs and expenses of said improvement, including the expense of engineering and inspection, shall be specially assessed, according to benefits, upon the real estate abutting thereon, as provided in Section 6981 of the General Code of Ohio.

Copies of the surveys, plats, profiles cross sections specifications and estimates, with alternates thereof, for construction of the said improvement, as prepared by the County Surveyor of Marion County, are now on file in the office of the Board of Commissioners of said Marion County for the inspection of all persons interested therein.

Objections to said improvement, and claims for compensation for land or property to be taken or damages to be sustained on account of the construction of said improvement, will be heard by the Commissioners of said Marion County, in their office in Marion, on October 11, 1927, at ten o'clock A. M. (Eastern Standard or local time), and unless such claims are filed in writing with the said Board of Commissioners on or before the time fixed for said hearing, the same shall be waived except as to minors or persons under disability.

By order of the Board of Commissioners of Marion County, Ohio, dated September 24, 1927.

T. A. O'LEARY,
Clerk of Board.
